EVILS OF TRUSTS RIGHT THEMSELVES, ASSERTS PARSONS

Former Attorney of American Sugar Refining Company Tells House Investigating Committee That His Theory Is Supported by Economic Writers.

IS AGAINST A LIMIT ON CAPITALIZATION

Repeats His Claim to Being Pioneer in Formation of Great Combinations in Business in America and Says He Is Proud of It.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—"All such wrongs right themselves," was the reassurance John E. Parsons gave the Sugar Trust investigators today when they asked him how to curb the big corporations. When the former attorney of the American Sugar Refining Co. took the stand again, Representative Asher C. Hinds inquired:

"As probably the world's most eminent expert on these matters, what do you suggest that a sovereign government can do to prevent these great combinations of capital from the extravagances they have exhibited in the past?"

Claims to Be Pioneer.

"My theory is, and it is supported by the greatest economic writers, that all such wrongs right themselves," replied Parsons.

"If there is too much water in the stock that will take care of itself. The Government cannot in equity interfere in private affairs. There should be no limit to capitalization so long as it is not injurious or fraudulent."

"I certainly claim to be the pioneer in the formation of the American trust," said Parsons in answer to another question. "I am very proud of it."

Mysterious Resolution.

At the start of the congressional investigation Charles R. Heike, former secretary of the American Sugar Refining Co., declared his ignorance of the mysterious resolution passed by the board of directors in which H. O. Havemeyer said the company should take action relative to "injurious litigation and hurtful legislation and appeals from each of the political parties."

Heike said that the late John E. Searles was the secretary and did not turn over to him records of the action taken on that resolution.

Parsons opposed a Federal incorporation law for local corporations, although he said such a law might be beneficial for public service corporations. He opposed the law which permits the Government to examine the books, question the officers and obtain the secrets of a corporation.

"I strongly condemn the modern theory of publicity of corporation affairs," he said. "It is unjust to the American citizen that he should be compelled to make his private affairs public."

In reply to questions by Sulzer, Parsons repudiated the many statements which have been made that H. O. Havemeyer was the one-power in the Sugar Trust and that the board of directors always did as he bade.

"I know personally that Havemeyer consulted the board in important matters. Different members frequently differed with him. They discussed the matters. Some times Havemeyer yielded, at other times the members yielded."

Not Like Other Trusts.

Parsons insisted that the American Sugar Refining Co. is not a trust similar to Sandard Oil and the American Tobacco. He scouted the idea that it was a monopoly. "There is no such thing as a monopoly possible," he said.

Representative Madison read into the record that after the American had absorbed the Philadelphia refineries there were three independent refineries in New York.

"Who organized those three refineries into the National Refinery Co.?"

"Mr. Havemeyer planned it, I believe."

"And he was then president of the American?"

"Yes."

Parson Hesitates.

"Were not these three companies to exchange all of their corporate stock for the preferred stock of the National, there being $10,000,000 of preferred and $10,000,000 of common?"

Parsons hesitated. "And did not the American later acquire that preferred stock or a majority of it?"

"I believe so, I don't remember perfectly."

"The American did not acquire any of the National $10,000,000 of common stock?"

"No."

"Havemeyer acquired possession of that $10,000,000 of common stock. Do you know what he paid for that or how he acquired it?"

"I do not know. The American had nothing to do with this deal with Mr. Havemeyer."

PUPS IS PUPS JUST AS PIGS IS PIGS

Pomeranians Born While Master Waits to Pay Duty Cause No End of Customs Tangle.

NEW YORK, July 21.—On leaving the White Star liner Baltic when she arrived here the other day James Croft of Newark stood with his Pomeranian dog on the pier awaiting the customs inspectors. There was a delay in reaching him, and by the time the customs gentlemen got around a canine stork had brought twins to Croft's pet.

The inspectors saw the puppies and immediately declared the tiny Pomeranians to be imports, on which the duty was $2 each. Croft protested and the question went to the appraisers. They disagreed with the inspectors. They held that the puppies were not imports, as they were born here, but should be classed as excess, taking a tariff of $5 apiece. On the bill of lading the appraisers made this indorsement: "Add goods in excess, as noted. No fraud intended."

But again Croft objected. Thereupon the inspectors and the appraisers disagreed again. Pending settlement the dogs were turned over to Croft as "perishable goods," but the customs men insisted on fixing a duty of $2 each on them, the same having "accrued on the trip."

Croft has not paid the amount, and United States District Attorney Vreeland of New Jersey has been asked to settle the weighty question.

WET WIRE SHOCK FOR THE CAT SERENADERS

Electrician Has Already Made Successful Use of Hose in Quieting Singers.

Here is a new way to stop that serenade of cats on your back fence: Turn the hose on them.

Charles M. Brown, who lives at 1318 Lake avenue, East St. Louis, announced Friday that he had made successful use of the method. He said he had thrown all the old shoes in the house at the cats which nightly gathered on his back fence to sing duets and choruses, and that the hose idea occurred to him about 1:30 a. m Friday.

Brown is City Electrician. He says he intends to run an electric lighting wire along the fence and wet it if the cats return, so that they will get a shock.

CROWD ANGRY WHEN HANGING IS STOPPED

Judge Asks Governor to Delay Execution Fearing It Would Influence Jury.

LOUISVILLE, Miss., July 21.—The execution of Bell Gage, the negro, who was sentenced to be hanged today for the murder of his wife, was postponed until Sept. 1.

Judge McLean, who is holding Circuit Court here this week, asked Gov. Noel to grant a few days' extension, fearing that the hanging might influence a jury impaneled in a murder case which will be tried this morning.

A large crowd was here to witness the grewsome sight and was angered by the postponement.

TRAIN STOPS FOR A PURSE

TRINIDAD, Colo., July 21.—Mrs. R. M. Warden of Dallas, Tex., while standing on the rear end of a Colorado & Southern passenger train, dropped her purse containing diamonds valued at $3000, and $100 in money.

The conductor was informed, and although the train had traveled more than three miles, a brakeman went back and found the purse.

FINDS BOY LYING UNCONSCIOUS ON STREET CAR SEAT

Attorney Janis and Others Force Crew to Take Lad Car Hit to a Near-By Doctor.

WOMEN WERE INDIGNANT

Conductor Was Taking Wounded Boy to Company Physician 14 Blocks From Accident.

Paul Janis of 5611 Bartmer avenue, an attorney, boarded a Page car at Goodfellow and Etzel avenues at 9:15 a. m. Friday. As he stepped into the car he saw an old man weeping and leaning over a seat on which lay a boy.

The boy apparently was unconscious. His face was bleeding and his clothing was muddy.

"What's the matter?" asked Janis.

"The car hit my boy," replied the old man, "and they won't get a doctor."

"Did your car hit this boy?" Janis asked the conductor, who wore badge 1355.

"Yes," said the conductor.

"Then why don't you get a doctor for him?"

"Oh, that's all right," said the conductor. "We'll take him to a doctor when we get to Taylor avenue."

"Make him get a doctor?" pleaded the father.

Mrs. F. B. Miller of 5962 Cates avenue and Mrs. Lyda Bleakney of 6007 Cates avenue, passengers, told Janis that they also had pleaded with the conductor to obtain medical aid for the boy, but he had refused.

Passengers Indignant.

Indignation among the passengers became greater when the boy showed signs of returning consciousness and moaned as if in pain.

Janis pleaded with the conductor in vain.

"I'll get a doctor when I get to Taylor avenue," he said.

From passengers Janis learned that the car struck the boy at Plymouth avenue, 14 blocks west of Taylor avenue. When the car reached King's highway Janis and other passengers had reached their limit of patience.

By threats they forced the conductor to stop the car and they made the conductor and motorman carry the boy to the office of Dr. Mont M. Hamlin, at 5003 Page boulevard.

Dr. Hamlin found that the boy's head was injured and that he was painfully cut and bruised.

The details as here stated were given to a Post-Dispatch reporter by Attorney Janis.

At Dr. Hamlin's office it was ascertained that the boy is Edward Mueller, 13 years old, of 6222 Olive Street road. He was injured on the left forehead with probably a slight concussion of the brain. His right elbow was cut and badly bruised and his left knee was wrenched and swollen. After his injuries were dressed he was taken to his home.

The boy told Dr. Hamlin that he attempted to cross the street at Plymouth avenue and stepped behind a sprinkling cart. He said the car struck him as he walked into the street from the rear of the wagon.

TEN TON ENGINE CRUSHES A BRIDGE

Falls Into Creek; Driver Escapes and Finds Himself Liable to St. Louis County.

The engine of a threshing machine crashed through the iron railing of a bridge over the River des Peres on the Danny road, half a mile north of the Clayton road, Thursday night and was precipitated into the river 15 feet below. The driver, Frank Gardner, stayed in his seat. He was slightly bruised and his left ankle was sprained.

The machine was owned by William Smith, a farmer on the St. Charles rock road. Morgan failed to cover the bridge with three-inch planks before starting over it as the statute provides in regard to heavy vehicles, and as a result county officials stated Friday that he would be held liable to the county for the damage done to the bridge.

The engine weighed 10 tons and sank deeply into the mud of the river. There is only two feet of water at the point where the accident occurred.

TAKES HAIR PULLED FROM HEAD TO COURT

Woman Exhibits It as That Which Another Uprooted When They Fought.

Mrs. George J. Miller, wife of an Alton manufacturer, took a one-pound candy box, well filled with light hair, into Magistrate Lessner's court Friday and exhibited the hair as that which, she said, Mrs. Leonard Van Duran, a neighbor, had pulled from her head in a fight Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Van Duran was fined $5 and costs. She weighs 130 pounds, while Mrs. Miller weighs but 90. Trouble between them began, it was testified, When Mrs. Miller's pet dog chased the other's chickens. Mrs. Miller fainted during the hearing.

PRISONER OF HATE MRS. MARIK WILL LOSE HER HUSBAND

Threatens to Quit Her Because She Persists in Serving Out a Fine.

Mrs. Ethel Marik of Forest Park Heights, prisoner of hate in the Clayton Jail, will lose her husband, Frank Marik, because of her refusal to permit him or her mother, Mrs. D. Smith of 1721 Olive street, to pay her fine, according to announcement by Mrs. Smith, as she sat on the Clayton Courthouse lawn at noon Friday. She was bewailing an order by which she was refused admission to the jail. The order was issued after a section of gas pipe was found in a basket of food which Mrs. Smith took to her daughter.

"Frank is tired of her actions," said Mrs. Smith to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "and he says he won't live with her any more, and I can't say I blame him. I can look after her and her two children, and I am going to take them away from Forest Park Heights. Something awful will happen if she goes back there to live."

Mrs. Marik, serving the third full day of her 26 days' term in jail, concurred in the declaration that something awful would happen when she got out. She said it would happen to her Forest Park Heights neighbor, Mrs. Alma Carlson, and she made the announcement so loudly that most of the people in the Courthouse heard her, while residents of Clayton gathered on the lawn to listen.

Explanation Is Rejected.

With Mrs. Marik shouting threats through the jail window, and Mrs. Smith shrieking outside, frenzied scene was presented Friday morning, just after Mrs. Smith had been barred from the jail. The jail authorities refused to listen to Mrs. Smith's explanation, which was that her grandson, Bennie Marik, had been playing with the gas pipe and had put it in the basket without her knowledge.

"I'm 52 years old," shrieked the mother, "and I've had 13 children, and never before was I accused of a wrong act. Oh, I can't stand it to be kept from her all that time. I'd pay the fine if she'd only let me."

"You'll not pay it," rang out the daughter's strident tone, "or you'll be sorry for it. I'm going to stay right here until my fine and costs are served out, and every day will pile up the punishment that will be coming to the woman that sent me here."

Angry When She Arrived.

Men and women who undertook to calm Mrs. Smith found it impossible to quiet her. She had been angry, when she arrived at Clayton, because of her exclusion when she arrived Thursday afternoon after 4:30, the closing hour. She was allowed to leave her basket then, and the gas pipe was found in it.

Mrs. Marik went to jail Tuesday in preference to paying $1 fine and $25.80 costs assessed against her by Justice Willecken for pulling Mrs. Carlson's hair in a neighborhood quarrel. Mrs. Carlson applied Thursday for a summons against Mrs. Marik, charging her with disturbing the peace, even while in jail, by her threats of revenge. She was told that she could have Mrs. Marik placed under a peace bond whenever she is released.

CLOTHES OF WIFE KILLED ON AUTO TRIP DESTROYED

Richmond (Va.) Coroner Learns Mrs. Beattie's Family Burned Up Her Garments.

By Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., July 21.—Henry Clay Beattie Jr., today told a coroner's jury of the murder of his wife by an unidentified man, who accosted them on the road while the couple were driving their automobile several nights ago.

Beattie's counsel stated that the young man knew he was suspected by the authorities of having had a hand in the crime, declared they would not object to any line of questioning the State might desire to pursue, and maintained that their client would prove his innocence.

Beattie, on the stand for two hours, rigidly adhered to his first story of the affair.

An important witness was expected to be Beulah Binford, a woman with whom young Beattie is said to have recently associated. Much of the testimony at the inquest was expected to turn on the relations between Beattie and his young wife.

Beattie appeared carefully dressed and at ease and smoked cigarettes incessantly before the inquest began.

Beattie on Stand.

Beattie was the first witness heard. The line of questioning indicated a belief by the State authorities that his wife was killed in the road, where the large blood stain was found, instead of in the automobile.

Inquiry for the clothing worn by Mrs. Beattie brought out the fact that it had been burned by her family, who, it was explained wished to destroy a reminder of the tragedy.

The inquest was delayed while the police authorities conferred about this, and was further delayed while the elder Beattie and his son's counsel were driven to the scene of the murder, so that the lawyer could satisfy himself as to the position of the blood-stained earth with relation to the track of automobile travel.

Beattie was closely questioned, his counsel, throwing all barrirhs by declaring the young man was well aware he was suspected and was ready to maintain htis innocence.

Beattie was on the stand more than two hours and in spite of all tests such as the reconstruction of the scene at the moment of the crime stuck to his original account of the tragedy.

He may be the only witness examined today.

PICKEL MUST PAY SON'S WIFE OR GIVE UP STOCKS

Judge Orders That Daughter-in-Law Must Be Given $100 a Month.

William Pickel, the wealthy stone and marble dealer, will have to pay to Mrs. Ella M. Pickel, wife of his son, Fred, the amount due her from her husband, under a separate maintenance decree of court, or turn back to Fred Pickel certain valuable stock. An order to that effect was made by Judge Fisher Friday.

Attorney Randolph Laughlin, representing Mrs. Pickel, said that $1500 was now due her under the court's order allowing her $100 a month for maintenance. Judge Fisher also directed Attorney Laughlin to prepare a decree charging that the transfer by Fred Pickel to his father of certain shares of stock was fraudulent. Unless the money due Mrs. Pickel is paid the court will levy on the stocks as soon as they are transferred to Fred Pickel.

The stock transferred consists of 75 shares of the capital stock of the Pickel Marble and Granite Co., 10 shares of German-American Bank stock and 15 shares of San Antonio Improvement stock.

The Pickel divorce and maintenance suits recently occupied the attention of the courts for several days. The divorce suit was dismissed, but Mrs. Pickel was allowed separate maintenance.

RECIPROCITY BILL TO TAFT SATURDAY

President to Get Approved Measure at Least 3 Hours Before He Departs for Beverly.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Chairman Penrose of the Senate Finance Committee today promised President Taft to lay the Canadian reciprocity bill, with the approval of both the Senate and House on the President's table by 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, more than three hours before the President plans to leave Washington for a week-end stay at Beverly.

Senator Penrose said that it might get through tomorrow morning and then would be brought immediately to the White House.

BURGLAR BRINGS BOOTY

Mrs. Emma Steiner of 4220 West Belle place turned over to the police a pair of opera glasses which she found on the window sill of her home Friday morning, after a burglar had been frightened away.

Mrs. Steiner was awakened at 3 a. m. by a noise. She looked out and saw a man climbing in a window on the first floor. He fled when she called to him to go away. Mrs. Steiner found the opera glasses later when she searched the house.

REYNOLDS, ANGERT AND WILLIAMS ARE LEWIS ADVISERS

Court in Appointing the Lawyers for Receiver of Property Capitalized at $6,000,000 Says That There Will Be Plenty of Work for All of Them.

PROMOTER SEEKS TO RAISE MORE FUNDS

Trust Co.'s Employes Begin Checking Up the Assets—Woman's League and the Art Building Are Not Included in the Receivership.

Eugene H. Angert and Matt G. Reynolds, who as attorneys for the reorganization syndicate have been in charge of E. G. Lewis' publishing, realty and banking enterprises for the last three months, were appointed Friday as attorneys for the St. Louis Union Trust Co. in its capacity of receiver for the Lewis concerns.

Judges Dyer and McPherson of the United States Circuit Court made the appointment. Charles P. Williams, whom the trust company had selected as its attorney, will be retained, the Court holding that there will be work enough for all.

Judge Dyer, in announcing the appointment, said they represented more than 50 per cent of the creditors. He said Claud Hall and S. H. King, who filed the petition for the receivership, had given good service, and directed that a fair remuneration be paid them from the Lewis assets.

Judge Dyer then discussed the powers which Walter D. Coles, as Master in Chancery, will have in his inquiry into the Lewis assets. He said Coles would be fully empowered to investigate every claim and to report to the Court his recommendations as to the manner in which the claims should be met. The Court, he said, will act on his recommendations, and no investigation will be made in open court.

"The idea," said Judge Dyer, "is to get every dollar available from the properties, and hold it for the creditors."

Employes of the St. Louis Union Trust Co. began Friday the work of checking up the affairs of the five remaining Lewis corporations, which have an aggregate capital of nearly $6,000,000.

Under the supplementary order issued late Thursday afternoon, Lewis and his wife, Mabel Gertrude Lewis, will be required to deed to the receivers all their property which has had any connection with the Lewis enterprises. This, according to Claud Hall, attorney for the creditors, will include the Lewis home in University City.

Still Has Woman's League.

On the other hand, the property of the American Woman's League, Lewis' latest and pet organization, which has chapter houses costing each $2000 or more scattered from Ohio to Colorado, is not included in the court's order. Lewis B. Tebbetts is trustee for most of the league's property, and the court's order, as originally typewritten, was directed against "Lewis B. Tebbetts, trustee," with the rest. But before the order was handed down these words were scratched by the judges with a pen.

The judges also scratched a reference to the University City Art Building, known officially as the Art Institute of the American Woman's League, and it will not be included in the property of which the St. Louis Union Trust Co. assumes control.

Attorney Hall says some of the league's property is held in the name of Lewis as trustee, and that any such property will be included in the receivership.

Lewis is in Washington, having been called as a witness, at the Government's expense, by the congressional committee which is investigating the attitude of the Postoffice Department toward his enterprises. Mrs. Lewis is on the way to Washington. Before her departure Thursday, she said that she was ready to help her husband begin again, as he is said to have begun 16 years ago, with $1.25 capital. She said the home was hers and that it bears a $35,000 mortgage, representing money which she has loaned to the Lewis Publishing Co.

Lewis is appealing to the American Woman's League to aid in the fight he is making at Washington and is soliciting $1 contributions which, he specifies, are not to be returned. He refers, in the latest issue of his remaining publication, to reports that he and his wife have been divorced and that he has sued the Baptist Church for $25,000 and says the stories spring from the same source as the letters which, he declares, Mrs. Lewis got every day for a year, designed to break up their home.

"The recievership means," said Attorney Angert Thursday afternoon, "that Lewis will never get a cent out of the properties. Except for his interest

DOCTORS IN PIKE ORGANIZE A TRUST AND FIX ALL FEES

Louisiana Physicians Will Charge Fifty Per Cent Extra for Night Calls.

LOUISIANA, Mo., July 21.—The doctors of this town are not afraid of the Wickersham bugbear.

They have formed a tight little trust of their own, in defiance of the Attorney-General of the United States and of the State of Missouri.

And to rub it in, they have published their schedule of rates and a copy of their pledge to adhere to them.

The trust agreement is signed by the 10 leading physicians of the city. There is no chance to escape the trust, if any Louisiana citizen gets sick, except to send to Clarksville, Bowling Green or Hannibal for an anti-trust doctor.

The rates, to go into effect Aug. 1, according to the announcement, are as follows:

Visits in city, $2; contagious diseases, $4; night visits in city $3; out of city visits, $2 and mileage, 75 cents per mile; 50 per cent extra night calls; office prescriptions and counsel, $1 to $5; counsel visits in city, $10; counsel visits in country, $10 and mileage at 75 cents per mile; confinement, $15; instrumental, $25.

Some indignant Pikers are threatening to report the trust to Attorney-General Major, who has long been a resident of Pike County, but the doctors apparently do not care, as they have published their rates in the local newspapers.

The doctors who signed the rate agreement were John W. Turner, J. W. Dreyfus, T. Guy Hetherlin, J. B. Unsell, J. W. Crewdson, J. D. Davis, W. R. Hardin, D. M. Pearson, I. H. Miller and T. J. Nalley.

ROYALISTS THREATEN TO INVADE PORTUGAL

They Possess Thousands of Rifles and Many Field Guns and Maxims.

LISBON, Portugal, July 20, via Badajos, Spanish frontier, July 21.—An invasion by Capt. Couciere at the head of the Royalist forces appears imminent. All attention is now fixed on the north.

The Portuguese monarchists possess thousands of rifles of the latest pattern smuggled into Galicia, Spain, from Germany and Belgium, and also many field guns and Maxims.

In the Women's League, he is broke and out of a job.

"Under the reorganization plan, Lewis was to get what remained after five years. There was some ground to hope that there would be something left after a long-time settlement conducted at the smallest possible expense. But the necessary expense of the receivership will be so much greater that there is no chance of leaving anything for Lewis, and it will be doubtful whether the creditors can be paid in full.

Since a receiver had to be appointed, we are very glad that the appointment fell to the St. Louis Union Trust Co., We had tried to get the company to take charge of some parts of the property, but its officers had not been inclined to do so.

"Lewis has his interest in the American Woman's League left. Whether he can continue to make a success of this work may be some question. But he is not a man who is likely to stand still in any case."

Investigating he Assets.

John M. McManus, representing the St. Louis Union Trust Co., began Thursday afternoon the work of investigating the Lewis properties in the company's behalf. He has acted for the company in its receivership for two tracts of University Heights land, and he said he realized that the new task would be a complex one. On his first few days' investigation, he said, will depend the future handling of the matter. Whether a force of clerks will be needed for the work, he could not tell.

MONEY IS WHAT LEWIS NEEDS NOW

He Asks for Aid to Conduct His Side of the Washington Inquiry.

Lewis, in the current issue of the Woman's National Weekly, the sole survivor of his publications, devotes nearly four pages to his defense and to an attack on Government officials and the attorneys for the complainants in the receivership suits.

In a lengthy editorial headed "The Joy of Battle," Lewis pleads with the members of the American Woman's League to stand by him and assist him. He declares anonymous letters have been sent to his wife in an effort to break up his home and that false statements of his home life have been made.

He tells of the testimony of Edwin C. Madden before the congressional investigating committee and asks the women to send any amount they can, even if it be only a dollar, to Madden in Washington to help conduct the "fight for justice."

Editorial in Part.

In the editorial he says:

"In the press from mysterious sources are appearing statements that Mrs. Lewis divorced me last year; that she and I expended $8000 a week on our recent trip; that I sued the Baptist church for $75,000; that I organized over 30 companies that failed; that this, and that and that.

"This campaign of abuse, villainy and malice seems to emanate from somewhere in Washington, through the spy system, probably the same source as the anonymous letters received each day for a year past by Mrs. Lewis in the effort to break up our home. What a nice free country it is getting to be!

"However, all these things are a part of the price and process. They will neither stop nor kill the league. Nothing can now kill it but the cowardice of its own members, and they are not cowards. On the contrary, we are making use of every brick thrown.

First Women's Republic.

"The answer of the league will be the greatest convention of women in the world's history next October and the founding of the first republic of women.

"I have a collie dog, many of you know him—Charlie—the official cat marshal of University City. For five years past every morning when Mrs. Lewis and I looked out of the window, Charlie was to be seen fishing with his feet in the goldfish pond. He never caught one in all the past five years, but today, this morning, he was still fishing with all the enthusiasm and determination to succeed of the first day. He may never catch one, but I will bet on him that he will stay on the job until he does.

"Are we less in purpose, determination and loyalty to our ideals than that dog? He is an inspiration to me and may be evolve into a man and I into a dog, if I do not stay on this job until our golden dreams have come true, and here in University City stands a new capital, more beautiful and glorious than any of man, the center of the education, art and industry of a great people's womanhood, the capital of the American Woman's Republic."

"Hold Up His Hands."

In another editorial, headed "Hold Up His Hands," Lewis says:

"That Gen. Madden's hands shall be upheld in this splendid fearless expose of the Postoffice Department is the duty of every stockholder and liberty-loving, law-abiding man and woman in the nation. The whole power and resource of the Postoffice Department will be pitted against him. The expense of his struggle for right, honesty and lawfulness will be heavy.

"We ask every stockholder, every reader, every citizen, who loves his country and a square deal to contribute, if but a dollar, to the cost of this battle, which is for the whole people and the freedom of the press. Send whatever amount you can spare and desire to contribute to Gen. Edwin C. Madden, Washington, D. C. Gen. Madden will use the fund so created for the expense of this fight for justice and render an accounting for all contributions and their use. The contributions are voluntary and not to be returned, but to be used for the necessary expenses of stenographers, witnesses, etc., not covered by the Congressional Committee's appropriation. Prompt action is requested."

Turbine Engine Kills Two Men.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 21.—The big turbine engine in the Illinois Traction System power house at Riverton exploded, wrecking the plant, killing two men and injuring two others. The dead are: John Buck, chief engineer of the boiler room, and Charles Buck, assistant engineer.

JOHN E. PARSONS PROUDLY CLAIMS THE TITLE, "FATHER OF THE TRUSTS"

NEW YORK, July 21.

JOHN E. PARSONS accepts willingly and in a way, proudly, the title of "Father of the Trusts."

When he told the Special Congressional Committee investigating the Sugar Trust his version of the formation of the combine, he said that he was willing to share all the blame "if there is any."

"I am willing to take the blame for originating the idea of consolidating the sugar interests into the big company in 1887," said Parsons. He went further and said that this was the first big combination, even preceding the Standard Oil, and Representative Madison of Kansas remarked:

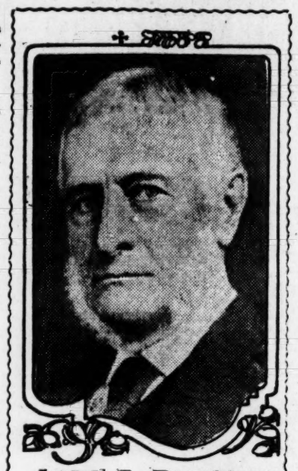
"Ah, here is the real father of the trusts."

Counsel for Manufacturers.

"There had been many makers of sugar prior to 1887," continued Parsons. "I was counsel for many of them. I was counsel for H. O. Havemeyer, Theodore A. Havemeyer of Havemeyer & Elder and John E. Searles."

"Who suggested to you the idea of bringing these independent companies together in 1887 into the Sugar Refineries Co.?"

"Well, I think it was in all their minds. I'm the man, though, who deserves the credit or the blame for actually forming that company, which, under reorganization because of the Sherman anti-trust law, became the present American Sugar Refining Co. I thoroughly believe in the combination of capital, of labor and any other interest for the benefit of those interested, when it is legal."



JOHN E. PARSONS

"There were 23 refineries in the United States at that time you welded 17 of them into the Sugar Refineries Co. of 1887," said Congressman Garrett. "Can you tell me what efforts were made to get in the other refineries?"

"The only man who can tell you is now dead. That is John R. Searles."

"How long did the refineries company last?"

Called Political Move.

"The change in its affairs began when a political party brought suit to disorganize the North River Refinery Co.," said Parsons.

"What party?" cried most of the congressmen.

"We call it Tammany Hall.

Then all of them wanted to know why.

"Well, that was about the opening shot of a political party against the trusts and both parties have kept it up ever since. That's why I am not a good party man now."

The court, Parsons said, dissolved the North River company because it was a corporation and had no right to join a partnership, which was the form of the Sugar Refineries Co.

WIFE SEES HER HUSBAND SHOOT YOUTH TO DEATH

Victim Steps in Front of Her and Fatal Charge Is Fired.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., July 21.—John Jewell, aged 42 years, is in the Livingston County jail here for killing Charles Hughes Thursday night. The murder occurred at the home of Jewell, six miles northwest of this city. Young Hughes, who, with his uncle, Henry Hughes, had been in Chillicathe Thursday afternoon. As they were returning to their home near the Jewell farm, they passed Jewell's home. Mr. and Mrs. Jewell were in the yard and the Hughes stopped and began talking. Henry Hughes, it is alleged, accused Jewell of slandering him.

A quarrel followed, in which Jewell says the older Hughes said he would "get him" if he came out into the road. Jewell went to his house and got a shotgun. He went into the road and the Hugheses started to ride away. Jewell followed them several rods and the Hugheses dismounted from their horses and started toward Jewell. When Charles Hughes was within a few feet of Jewell the latter raised the shotgun and fired, the entire charge entering the young man's left breast, killing him instantly.

Jewell fled to town, where he gave himself up to Sheriff White.

Coroner Dowell went to the scene of the shooting and held an inquest. The jury held Jewell for the death of Hughes. Jewell stated Friday that he was compelled to kill Hughes to protect himself, as his life had been threatened.

Mrs. Jewell was in the road at the time and tried to get her husband to return to the house, but he refused. She was standing between Jewell and Hughes when the latter walked in front of her and received the entire load of shot from the gun in Jewell's hands. Owing to the prominence of the persons implicated, much excitement was wrought up over the killing.

ROBBERS GET $230 AND DIAMOND RING

Professor on Train Gives Up Cash When He Finds Highwaymen Not "Fooling."

CHICAGO, July 21.—Prof. Clifford B. Connelley of the School of Applied Industries at the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburg, who passed through Chicago last night, lost $230 and a diamond ring to the highwaymen who help up the limited, Wednesday night, near Buffalo, N. D.

When a masked man thrust a revolver between the Pullman berth curtains and ordered Prof. Connelley "to hand over all he had or get shot," the professor pushed back the hand that held the weapon and said: "Oh, go away and quit your fooling."

It was not until another hand came through the curtains and wrenched a diamond ring from his finger, almost taking the finger with it, that the professor fully awakened. Then he sat up and placed in the unarmed hand $230.

to invalidate the common stock allege that the company did not receive one cent in return for this $10,000,000 of common stock.

"You were to get some of this common stock?"

"Yes, Mr. Havemeyer promised to give me 4000 shares of the common stock of a par value of $400,000 for my legal services in the transaction. But when it came time to deliver the stock I said that I preferred the preferred stock, and he gave me 1000 shares of that for my services."

"Did you shun the common because of its aqueous nature?"

"No."

Company Fined $70,000.

Madison then got Parsons to tell about the famous meeting between John Arbuckle and H. O. Havemeyer, which is supposed to have ended the big sugar war. Parsons said that at the conference in question no agreement was reached, and that the sugar war is still on.

"You were counsel for the American when it was prosecuted for receiving rebates?" he was asked.

"Yes."

"And the company pleaded guilty?"

Parsons explained this at length and said that on its plea the company was fined $70,000.

Gave Money to Campaign.

Asked about the mysterious resolution about campaign contributions to quiet "injurious litigation and hurtful legislation," Parsons said that he recalled having been asked for advice if the company could make such contributions.

"I said the company had such a right to protect its stockholders," he said, "but I certainly wouldn't contribute to buy off persecution. I only know of one political contribution. That was in one of the Harrison campaigns, when the company gave $10,000 to the treasurer of the Republican Campaign Committee. I think his name was Armour."

THREATENING NOTE TO PURCHASER OF FARM

John Freund, a farmer, near Waterloo, Ill., is much worried over a threatening letter he received Thursday. The letter said that if he completed the purchase of the Philip L. Kopf Sr. farm, which he is buying on installments, all the buildings on it would be burned and the stock poisoned.

Freund has paid a considerable sum on the farm, and tried to get Kopf to return it, declaring the deal off, but Kopf refused. Freund asked county officers to help him try to find out who had written the letter, and is in doubt as to what he shall do about the purchase of the farm.

POLICEMAN WARNS FRIEND, ARRESTS HIM WITH PISTOL

Motorman Armed Himself After Finding Man in Bathtub at Wife's Home.

Claude Hawkins was so infuriated by finding a man in the bath tub at his wife's home, 1117 Cockrill street, that he armed himself, in spite of the warning given him by his friend, Patrolman Gibbons of the Page Boulevard Station.

Gibbons applied Friday for a warrant charging Hawkins with carrying concealed weapons. He said he arrested Hawkins at King's highway and Cabanne avenue Thursday night because he thought it his duty, but that he sympathized with Hawkins.

In a report on the case, made to Capt. Gaffney, Gibbons stated that Hawkins and his wife had lived apart for two years. Hawkins, who is a motorman on the Olive line, has boarded lately at 5803 Delmar avenue.

Both Visit Wife's Home.

A few nights ago, Gibbons said, Hawkins met him and asked him to accompany him to his wife's home, on Cockrill street. He seemed greatly agitated and the policeman went along. They entered the house, Gibbons reported, and found Mrs. Hawkins and another woman in kimonos. They heard a splashing in the bathroom, and, going there, found that a man was in the tub.

He told them he was a boarder, but Gibbons noticed that he had a revolver within reach on the bathroom window.

Gibbons went to the front room to question the women, and when he returned he saw Hawkins with a revolver angrily confronting the bather, who was also holding his weapon.

Gibbons placed himself between the two, he reported, and disarmed them. He removed the cartridges from both weapons and warned the men not to carry them loaded. "If you do," he told Hawkins, 'Tll have to arrest you."

Finds Pistol in Pocket.

Hawkins did not heed the warning, Gibbons reported, and when he met him Thursday night, headed for the Cockrill street house, he thought it best to search him. Finding the weapon, he took him to the station. Assistant Circuit Attorney Rosskopf said Friday that the warrant would be issued.

Gibbons said he had been told that the man found in the bathroom was a bartender in a St. Louis County saloon.

CUSTOMS FRAUD COSTS INSPECTOR BIG FINE

Hugo Rosenberg of New York Escapes Prison Sentence by Payment of $25,000.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Hugo Rosenberg of the firm of Rosenberg Bros., implicated in customs frauds estimated at $1,400,000, was freed in the United States Circuit Court on payment of a $25,000 fine. A few minutes before that Judge Archbald, who imposed the fine upon Rosenberg, had sentenced Lionysius Pollas to three months' imprisonment for perpetrating customs frauds estimated at $2500. Pollas had pleaded guilty.

United States District Attorney Wise, in asking that Rosenberg receive a prison sentence, said he would rather see Rosenberg get one day in jail than pay a fine of $1,000,000 to the Government. The District Attorney said Rosenberg had admitted his guilt and had crawled upon his knees and tried to kiss the prosecutor's hands when begging that a fine be accepted.

Judge Archbald announced that he would accept all responsibility and as he had released Rosenberg's brother with a fine of $25,000, he must be consistent and let the prisoner go with a similar fine. It was paid promptly with two $10,000 bills, four of $1000 and two of $500.

LA FOLLETTE HITS PRESS FOR STAND ON RECIPROCITY

Selfish Motives, He Says, Have Inspired Support of Free Paper Measure.

DEFENDS PROGRESSIVES

Insists They Have Not Changed Front on the Tariff, but Oppose Partial Revision.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Assailing the press of the United States for its support of the Canadian reciprocity bill, Senator La Follette of Wisconsin made his closing speech against the bill in the Senate today.

He expressed the belief that newspapers would suffer in loss of influence for the support they have given to legislation in which, he said, "they have a direct money interest."

"The press has failed in its duty to the public, in regard to this legislation," he said.

La Follette referred to testimony given before the Finance Committee of the Senate that a newspaper organization had sent out a communication to many papers urging them to favorably treat the reciprocity agreement. He deplored this attitude of the newspapers.

"We have senators on this floor who are bankers," said La Follette; "senators who are woolen manufacturers and cotton manufacturers, senators who are interested in lumber and mines. Let no newspaper hereafter assail any senator because he supports legislation in his own peculiar interest."

Tilt With Hitchcock.

Senator La Follette referred to Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, who had interrupted him, "as a newspaper owner" who had a direct interest at stake.

"Is it not just as fair for me to criticise the Senator from Wisconsin," retorted Hitchcock, "for advocating a duty on paper in the interest of the great paper mills of Wisconsin to which the whole country pays tribute?"

Senator La Follette replied that he did not favor a duty on paper; that he was in favor of free print paper and would propose a measure in that interest as a direct tariff measure. He objected to the reciprocity bill, he said, because the newspapers would get free paper at the expense of the farmers whose duties on their products would be removed.

La Follette defended progressive Republicans from the charge that they have changed front on the tariff, and are now opposing a partial tariff revision as embodied in the reciprocity bill. He said the progressive stood just where they did in the tariff fight of 1909, but that the reciprocity bill was not a true Republican measure.

"I oppose this bill because it belies its title," said Senator La Follette. "It is not reciprocity. It violates every principle of reciprocity as defined by Republican presidents and Republican platforms."

Senator La Follette declared the Democratic party had violated its own principles in every vote it had cast in the Senate on the reciprocity bill by aligning with the Republican high tariff forces.

"The Democrats will have to answer for their inconsistencies," said La Follette.

FAITH CURE FAILS; BABY DIES; CORONER SCORES WOMAN

Investigation Requested by Dr. Chopin Shows Medical Treatment Was Refused.

CHILD'S MOTHER DEAD

Father Declares He Is Satisfied With Effort to Save Infant by Prayer.

After hearing the evidence at the inquest into the death of a 3-months-old child Friday, Deputy Coroner Carriere told Mrs. J. F. Shepard, who had had charge of the baby before its death, that there should be a law to punish persons who allow children to die without giving them medical attention.

Mrs. Shepard had testified that she is a member of the Church of God, whose members, she said, believe in healing by faith and prayer and are opposed to medicine and doctors.

"Perhaps before you die you may be stricken with sciatic rheumatism," Dr. Carriere told Mrs. Shepard. "If you are so afflicted, you will change your mind and get a doctor in a hurry."

The inquest was held to ascertain the cause of death of Paul C. Wheeler, the infant son of Mrs. David C. Wheeler, who died Jun e 20in the city hospital. Mrs. Wheeler exacted a promise from Mrs. Shepard before her death that she would care for the little one.

Last Monday Mrs. Shephard took the baby to Dr. G. F. Chopin, 8411 North Broadway, and asked him to diagnose its ailment. The physicians told her that the baby was seriously ill and needed immediate attention. Mrs. Shepard refused the medical treatment, the evidence showd, and took it to her home where prayers were said for its recovery by members of the secto to which she belongs. The child became worse and died Thursday.

Mrs. Shepard testified at the inquest that she does not believe in taking medicine and believed that the prayers of the church would heal the child. She said the headquarters of the Church of God in St. Louis is a mission at 7919 North Broadway, in the building occupied by her as a home.

David C. Wheeler, father of the child, is an employe of the Armour Packing Co. in East St. Louis. He told Dr. Carriere that he was satisfied with the faith treatment given the child by the members of the church sect.

A verdict of death from cholera infantum, with whooping cough as a contributory cause, without medical treatment, was rendered at the inquest.

LORIMER WITNESS ADMITS ADVISING SUBPENA DODGING

Declares He Asked Cook and O'Brien to Keep Out of the Way.

WAS AT HINES' REQUEST

C. F. Wiehe, Secretary of Lorimer Co., Under Grilling Cross-Examination.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—C. F. Wiehe, Secretary of the Edward Hines Lumber Co. of Chicago, was subjected to a detailed cross examination today before the Senate Lorimer Committee as to the part he and Edward Hines, President of the company, took in the Lorimer election.

Attorney J. H. Marble for the committee, directed attention to the night when Wiehe asked W. H. Cook and Wm. O'Brien, at Hines' request to keep out of the way while the Grand Jury was in session in Chicago.

"Did you know it was a violation of the law to advise persons to avoid subpoenas?" asked the attorney.

"I didn't think about it at that time; I was just a messenger for Hines."

Chairman Dillingham wanted to know whether as a matter of fact subpenas for Cook and O'Brien had been issued. Attorneys for Hines stated that they had not been, but Senator Kern led the witness to say that Hines said to him that night that he was advsied subpenas had been issued.

Talked Too Much.

"Did you say that night that Hines was talking too much about the Lorimer case?" asked Marble.

"I might have. I knew Hines felt that by his message to Gov. Deneen he believed he had been influential in the election of Lorimer and I thought, as has been shown, that if he kept repeating his part in the election he would get Lorimer's enemies down on him."

After thinking of the matter over night Wiehe declarad that one of the reasons why he asked R. J. Shields, the affidavit collector of Superior, Wis., to meet him in Chicago about 10 days ago, was to discuss sending him to Albany, N. Y.

Sought List of Contributors.

"Why didn't you recall that yesterday? asked Marble.

"I don't know," Wiehe explained that the Hines company desired to ascertain if Cyrus McCormick contributed anything to the Taft campaign in 1908 and that he had been advised the list of contributors was on file with the Secretary of State at Albany.

"I had wired the Secretary of State and had gotten a reply that the list was destroyed, only being retained for 15 months," said the witness. "Since coming here I have received a wire from Albany saying the list would be furnished for $1000."

Wiehe did not think the charge was solely for copying the 128 pages of contributions.

"Do you mean to say there are 128 pages of contributions to the Taft campaign funds?" asked Senator Kern, late vice-presidential candidate on the ticket opposed to Taft.

"Yes, sir," replied the witness.

"I see how it happened, then," responded the defeated candidate.

Wiehe was asked why he had called in Shields about the Albany matter. He said Shields claimed to know someone at Albany that might help him get the list.

Shields Sought as Witness.

"Haven't you men in your office who could get the list without calling a man all the way from Superior?" Wiehe was asked.

"Yes, but I talked over other matters to Shields," he replied.

Senator Aldrich, who was on the stand yesterday, did not attend the hearing today. He denied yesterday that he had sent to Gov. Deneen any message which could be interpreted as meaning that President Taft desired the election of Lorimer. He had told Hines, he said, that Lorimer would not be objectionable to the President.

A statement issued some time ago from the White House also was read to the committee.

Senator Kern asked Wiehe many questions about the Winnipeg flyer incident, when Wiehe is credited with saying he contributed to a Lorimer election fund. Wiehe testified that at first he had been unable to tell the manner in which the seven or eight men were seated in the smoker "until we all got together and talkd it over."

In reply to a question from Senator Kenyon, Wiehe said he thought Shields would come to Washington to testify if requested to do so. Chairman Dillingham interrupted to say that several inquiries had been recently made as to whether Shields was in hiding. He stated that not until yesterday was a suggestion made to summon him.

"I think he should be a witness," declared Senator Kenyon.

"So do I and we will be obliged for information as to where Shields may be reached," said Dillingham. No one, however, was able to give the information.

TWO CAMORRISTS ARE THROWN OUT; THIRD HAS A FIT

Attorneys Flee as Witness and Lawyer Dispute Violently, and the Judge Gives Up.

FABRIONI CAUSES ROW

Captain of Carbineers Accuses Attorney for Prisoners and Court Becomes Bedlam.

By Associated Press.

VITERBO, Italy, July 21.—The most violent scene of the Camorrist trial to date was provoked today by a personal dispute between Capt. Fabroni and Lawyer Lioy.

In the tumult all the other lawyers fled from the room. Enrico Alfano and Gennaro Abbatemaggio, the informer, were thrown out bodily by the carabineers. Giovanni Bartolozzi fell in a fit and President Bianchi, helpless to maintain order, declared the session adjourned.

Throughout the hubbub Fabroni stood pale but impressive. As the courtroom was being cleared he said:

"The Camorra, in or out of court, won't intimidate me."

Fabroni, Captain of the Neapolitan carabineers, was assigned by the Ministry of Justice to uproot the Camorra. During the past few days he has told on the stand the results of his detective work and the operations of his associates, Marshal Capizutti and Marshal Farris. Alessand Lioy, now attorney for the defense, formerly edited a newspaper.

Bitter Personal Feeling.

Fabroni has testified that revelations against the Camorra made by Editor Lioy were not in harmony with the claims set up by Lawyer Lioy in defense of his clients. Bitter personal feeling between the detective and the lawyer resulted.

When court opened today Capt. Fabroni was asked by Cavallere Santosodo, the crown prosecutor, whether the assertion of Zanelli that Marshal Capizutti had tried to influence him to swear falsely against his fellow prisoners were true. Fabroni replied:

"Zanelli is the scum of criminality. Instead it was Lioy who through Zanelli attempted to buy witnesses for the defense."

This reflection on the lawyer raised the first storm. Lioy screamed like a mad man. Abbatemeggio, notwithstanding the caution of the president, joined in the row in support of the lawyer.

Enrico Alfano, the alleged head of the Camorra, led in a chorus of invective directed against Fabroni and Abbatemaggio.

Two Are Put Out.

Finally the president ordered Abbatemaggio and Alfano removed from the room. They were not disposed to go quietly and were seized by carabiners and dragged from the place.

For a time there was a calm and the president took advantage to admonish the witness to avoid personalities.

"We should aim only at the triumph of truth as it is directly connected in the trial of this case. We must not go into personalities" he said.

With much feeling, Fabrioni replied:

"For years I have stood the insults of this man Lioy without trying him before the courts because I considered him not an animal, but a person whose mental faculties were unbalanced."

Lioy reported in fury, concluding by calling the witness a hypocrite.

"A greater hypocrite that yourself does not exist," replied Fabroni.

Lawyers Leave Court.

The exchange had again stirred the prisoners and opposing counsel and the din that followed fairly shook the Court of the Assizes. All of the lawyers for the defense except Lioy, shouting their indignation, stalked out of the room. Lioy jumped about, gesticulating and hurling epithets at the Crown's witness.

Meantime the prisoners in the great steel cage formed a sort of claque, hissing and cursing their accuser and applauding their lawyer. At last Gibvanni Bartlozzi and others pressed their heads between the bars of the cage like wild animals struggling to reach their tormentor.

"Get your heads back in there," ordered the carabineers with a threatening movement.

"No; cut off our heads. Yes, behead us," they cried.

Then Bartolozzi tumbled over in an epileptic fit.

The doctors entered the cage to attend him and were followed by a score of carabineers, each of whom seized a prisoner and held him until he was physically exhausted.

His efforts to restore order being futile, President Bianachi adjourned the sitting.

TWO FAMILIES ARE TO BE UNITED BY A DOUBLE WEDDING

Van Raalte Sister and Brother Are to Marry Rottersman Sister and Brother.

Miss Theresa Van Raalte and her brother Elie of 4217 West Pine boulevard went to a charity dance last January at the Young Men's Hebrew Association's hall, and there met Henry Rottersman and his sister Minna of 5113 Delmar boulevard.

They danced together and continued the acquaintance until it developed into a double-barreled courtship.

Next September, according to announcement Friday, brother and sister will marry sister and brother at a double wedding.

Rottersman came to the United States five years ago from Breslau, Germany, and subsequently made his way to St. Louis. Loneliness caused him to send for his sister and a brother, Emil. They live together at the Delmar boulevard address.

The Van Raaltes are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Van Raalte. Miss Theresa is 24 years old and her fiance is 30. Elie Van Raalte is 28 and Miss Rottersman is 21.

Rottersman has leased an apartment at 4141 West Pine boulevard, and the four newlyweds expect to make their home there together. Their plan is to have a double wedding at the Van Raalte home, and to honeymoon together.

Miss Van Raalte was talking with her brother a month ago about their friends, the Rottersmans. She confided a secret to him.

"I'm engaged to marry Henry," she said.

"Why, bless my soul," said he, "I'm going to marry Minna."

So they went together and told their parents.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Betrayed by a jealous admirer, Miss Fannie Grinsley, 30 years old, was arrested charged with the murder of Charles Patterson three years ago at Tompkinsville, Ky. Patterson's death has been a mystery.

The woman was arrested following an anonymous telephone communication to police headquarters. The police were told that a woman wanted for murder would be found in a certain rooming house. Harry McCormick later was taken into custody. He told the police that he had lived with the Grinsley woman and that she had confessed to him that she had killed Patterson for threatening to desert her.

The police obtained a letter written to the woman by McCormick in which he threatened to kill himself because she had left him. Miss Grinsley denies the murder charge.

STUDYING WILEY'S CASE

No Decision Probable Until Next Week.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The Wiley case probably will not be settled until next week. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson declared before the Cabinet meeting today that it would take him several days more to go through the papers in the case.

"This is a highly important matter, and one over which I am not going to hurry through. I may make a report this week, but I doubt it."

New Counterfeit $10 Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—A new counterfeit $10 bill on the Exchange American National Bank of New York has been found circulating in the Middle West. It is a photographic reproduction of a genuine bill and bears evidences of having been made by the same counterfeiters who recently circulated a bad $10 United States note.

1000 MEN ARRIVE AT HAITI CAPITAL TO OPPOSE REBELS

Insurgents Swarming Down From the North of Port Au Prince, Bent on Capture.

SIMON IS ON THE DEFENSE

Foreign Residents Raise Colors of Respective Countries Over Their Homes.

By Associated Press.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, July 21.—The Government, strengthened by 1000 men who arrived during the night from the South on a German steamer, has organized a resistance to the revolutionists, who are threatening the capital from the north.

President Simon is directing the defense of the palace. Gen. Sylvain, the new Secretary of the Interior, has taken command of the Government troops concentrated at the Port of Archale, several miles northwest of Port au Prince, and into which district the rebels are swarming.

The towns that are in arms are forming revolutionary committees, composed chiefly of the followers of Gen. Antenor Firmin, leader of the revolt of 1902, who recently fell out with President Simon and has since been suggested as the next incumbent of the presidential chair.

The American gunboat Petrel arrived here today.

The foreign residents have raised the colors of their respective countries over their homes.

PLEASURE YACHT GUARDS AMERICANS

It Happens Into Cape Haitien As Rebels Capture the City.

By Associated Press.

CAPE HAITIEN, July 21.—Cape Haitien is in the hands of the revolutionists and the sole protection of Americans and other foreigners at this port is an American yacht, which arrived here Wednesday.

The United States gunboat Petrel sailed from here several hours previous to the arrival of the yacht, leaving American interests unprotected, and when the yacht came into the harbor, her owner, Evans R. Dick, found the town in a state of semi-anarchy. The insurgents were rapidly approaching and President Simon and his troops had left Fort Liberte for Port au Prince.

There were rumors also that the cruiser Antoine Simon was on her way to bombard some of the ports.

Rebels Reinforced.

As is customary under such circumstances, most of the residents took sides with the revolutionists and soon the authorities were unable to check the disorders. Dick notified the officials that he would not permit any bombardment by Haitien warships and would protect the foreigners.

At night fighting broke out in the streets. The searchlight of the yacht was kept playing on the house in which the Americans, who were brought in from working on the railroad, had collected with their wives.

The civic authorities aided in this work.

When the Government was overthrown the revolutionists occupied the town, and the streets were filled with excited men shooting at random. All the American women were taken aboard the yacht, while the foreign consulates were filled with refugees. These included generals who had opposed the revolution and the local authorities in protecting whom the French Consul was slightly wounded.

Yacht Not Allowed to Fire.

A request was cabled to the United States authorities by the yacht owner for release from the bond given before leaving New York not to use arms, and an answer was returned that there was no authority for such release. This practically denied the right to protect the lives of Americans, but notwithstanding preparations were continued to afford such protection in whatever way was deemed advisable.

The whole American colony claimed immediate protection, and it is pointed out that serious results may follow if permission is denied the American yacht owner to use the guns with which the vessel is supplied in case of emergency until the arrival of an American warship.

Scout Ship Chester Starts for Haiti.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Impressed with the need of quick action to protect American interests in Haiti, Commander Benton C. Decker had his scout cruiser Chester coaled during the night and sailed from Bradford, R. I., for Cape Haitien at 3 o'clock this morning, less than twelve hours after he had received orders detaching the Chester from the war game in Long Island Sound. The Chester will maintain an average speed of 20 knots an hour and is expected to arrive at Cape Haitien Monday night.

CHILE ORDERS BATTLESHIP

Turns Down Offer of U. S. Because of High Prices.

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 21.—The Government has refused the American offers for the construction of battleships of the dreadnaugh type, owing, it is explained, to the high prices asked.

It will accept the offer of John Brown & Co. (limited), an English firm, for two ships, but will require that they be equipped with the guns of Vickers, Son and Maxim.

"HORSESHOE KID" AGAIN ACQUITTED AT ROBBERY TRIAL

Wins Name From Police by Facility With Which He Escapes Conviction.

George Meyers, known also as Weenie Meyers and called by the police The Horseshoe Kid, because of his success in convincing juries that he is innocent, was acquitted of a box car robbery charge in Judge Taylor's court Friday.

Taking cognizance of the nickname, Judge Taylor, after the acquittal, said:

"Now, Meyers, go back to the cage and get your horseshoe ready for the next trial."

Meyers was accused of complicity in a box car robbery at Second and North Market streets Jan. 9 last. At that time a policeman, chasing the robbers, shot Meyers' brother, Thomas.

Witnesses testified tha George Meyers was elsewhere when the robbery was committed.

Meyers recently was twice tried on robbery charges. In the first case he was acquitted and in the second the jury failed to agree. Another charge against him is pending.

"Gift of Tongues" Baptism Held.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 21.—Fourteen persons, half of them women, converted during the Pentecostal convention of the "Gift of Tongues" sect, were baptized in the Monongahela River. Thousands of spectators, in all kinds of craft and standing in the water, watched the ceremony.

FORGIVES BROTHER WHO SHOT HIM TO GET $700 FOR WIFE

Melvin Carter of Mexico, Mo., on Deathbed, Hears Relative's Confession of Crime.

By Associated Press.

MEXICO, Mo., July 21.—Clarence Carter last night went to the bedside of Melvin Carter, his brother, who is lying mortally wounded, and confessed that it was he who had fired the shot which penetrated his brother's back and entered his abdomen.

He said he was prompted to commit the crime by his mulatto wife, who wanted the money to be derived from a $700 life insurance policy her husband held on his brother's life.

Clarence Carter is alleged to have enticed his brother into the railroad yards last Tuesday night and shot him from behind. The affair remained a mystery until the confession last night.

"I did it for the woman's sake, but I want you to forgive me before you die," said Clarence Carter.

The dying man replied that he would forgive.

Clarence Carter made the confession in the presence of half a dozen officers and was placed under arrest. At his request he was immediately taken to his brother's bedside.

PHYSICIAN ADVISES CUTICURA REMEDIES

For Eczema. Patient's Wrist and Shin Itched Like Poison. Scratched Until They Bled. Says: "Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Me."

"Four years ago I had places break out on my wrist and on my shin which would itch and burn by spells, and scratching them would not seem to give any relief. When the trouble first began, my wrist and shin itched like poison. I would scratch those places until they would bleed before I could get any relief. Afterwards the places would scale over, and the flesh underneath would look red and feverish. Sometimes it would begin to itch until it would waken me from my sleep, and I would have to go through the scratching ordeal again.

"I consulted our physician in regard to it, and he pronounced it "dry eczema." I used an ointment which the doctor gave me, but it did no good. Then he advised me to try the Cuticura Remedies. As this trouble has been in our family for years, and is considered hereditary, I felt anxious to try to head it off. I got the Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills, and they seemed to be just what I needed.

"The disease was making great headway on my system until I got the Cuticura Remedies which have cleared my skin of the great pest. From the time the eczema healed four years ago, until now, I have never felt any of its pest, and I am thankful to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment which certainly cured me. I always use the Cuticura Soap for toilet, and I hope other sufferers from skin diseases will use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Irven Hutchison, Three Rivers, Mich., Mar. 16, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book on the skin and scalp will be sent free, on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 17A, Boston.

YELLOW JACKET MINSTREL SHOW SATURDAY NIGHT

Big Benefit for Pure Milk Fund by Clever Company of Young Stars.

BRIGHT BILL ARRANGED

Many Entertaining Specialties Will Be Presented to "Save the Babies."

It won't be the fault of the Yellow Jacket Minstrel Troupe if their big entertainmena Saturday evening for the benefit of the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund doesn't break all records of shows arranged, managed and given by St. Louis young people for the fund benefit.

This is what they have set out to do, and it's what they succeeded in doing last summer, when they realized $86.72 for the fund from a clever entertainment of their giving. They feel sure of doing even better this summer.

But they are not content with merely "feeling sure." They're all working like beavers to that end. They have prepared an excellent minstrel and vaudeville program, they have rehearsed its various acts diligently, and their specialty stars are brighter and better drilled than ever before. In addition, there has been a vigorous ticket-selling campaign, and all signs now indicate an overwhelming success.

The entertainment will be given on the lawn of Mr. John Gorman's home, 2714 North Spring avenue, and it will be the fourth annual minstrel and vaudeville entertainment given by this talented organization. New properties have been added to their stage equipment, including electric fittings and three new sets of scenery, and many improvements have been made.

Several new stars of special ability also have been added to the company, among them being Miss Ruth Garland and Messrs. Lawrence Devoy, Frank Tracy and Sylvester Cassidy, the latter an allround comedian who will be seen in several sketches, including a Hebrew dialect act with Eugene Gorman as his associate.

Among the others, Miss Eunice Wissler, a very talented litle entertainer; Miss Pearl Greer and Miss Elma E. Butler have prominent places on the program. Miss Wissler and Miss Greer will be heard in the duet, "My Baby Rose," and Miss Wissler also has three solo song numbers entitled "If I Were a Millionaire," "Jimmy Valentine" and "Save Up Your Kisses." Miss Elma E. Butler, a young elocutionist of much talent, will be heard in the recitation, "Little Tommy's Prayer," giving excellent opportunity for a full revelation of her rich gifts.

But the Yellow Jacket Minstrel Troupe in its completeness is such an admirable organization that it isn't quite fair to make special mention of its individual members. Others who will appear to equal advantage on the program are Mary McGill, Genevieve, Patrice, Jeannette and Marie McGlynn, Margaret, Catherine, Helen and Frances Duffy, Peter Quinn, Francis McGill, Will Dunn, Alfred Heckert and Julian McGlynn.

The price of admission is 10 cents for adults and 5 cents for children. There will be reserved seats and refreshments. In the event of rain, the benefit performance will be postponed until the following Monday, July 24.

If you relish bright entertainment presented by clever young amateurs, it will be well worth your while to attend the Yellow Jacket Minstrel Troupe's minstrel and vaudeville entertainment tomorrow evening. If you wish to help the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund, which helps the little children of the poor in the city's crowded tenement districts, it will be still better worth your while to attend, because the Yellow Jackets will donate the entire proceeds of their show to the Pure Milk Fund.

Save the Babies!

The Post-Dispatch today received the following kindly and appreciative letter concerning the beneficent operation of the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund, the letter being accompanied by the contribution mentioned:

"St. Louis, July 20, 1911.

"Editor Post-Dispatch:

"I hand you herewith $14.10 as a contribution to your Pure Milk Fund on behalf of the Wyoming Street Protective Association, by order of the Board of Trustees. The officers and members of the association believe that more good has been, and will be, accomplished by means of this worthy charity of yours than can ever be told. Truly yours, JOHN T. FITZSIMMONS,

"President, Wyoming Street Protective Association."

The Post-Dispatch, in behalf of the Pure Milk Fund, returns its grateful thanks for contribution and appreciation alike.

The Post-Dispatch is also in receipt of the following delightful communication from a helpful little girl:

5419 Maple Avenue, St. Louis, July 20, 1911.

Dear Babies—I got up a little club of girls and we heard about the Milk Fund, so we thought we would give a little doll bazar for you.

We are sending you this money ($3) which we earned giving the bazar to help your fund, and giving the names of the girls in the club—Vera Groves, Vera Fellows, Mercedes Groves, Clara Selectman, Alice Williams and Hazel Fellows. With love to the babies, from our own little John Rosner Rushed to Hospital and It Is Feared He Is Hurt Internally.

John Rosner of 2225 Jules avenue stepped from the front exit of a moving northbound Jefferson avenue car at Park avenue at 6:45 a. m. Friday and fell. The step of the car caught his shoulder and dragged him, so that when Charles Lascon, the motorman, stopped it, Rosner was under the wheels.

Rosner was taken to the city hospital, where it was found that three ribs and one leg were broken, that his head was bruised and his ears crushed. It is feared that he was internally hurt and that he would not survive. He is 35 years old.

SHERIFF'S AUTO IS HIT BY STREET CAR

One Man in Hines' Machine Saved From Almost Certain Death.

Sheriff Waldo P. Hines of St. Charles County was injured Thursday night when his automobile was struck by a Hodiamont car at Hamilton avenue and the Suburban tracks. Robert A. Fisher, an occupant of the auto, was saved from probable death when Martin J. Gallagher reached from the rear seat and caught him as he was thrown forward and was almost under the wheels of the street car.

Hines and his companions were taking the automobile back to St. Charles after it had been repaired in St. Louis. As the auto approached the tracks at Hamilton avenue at 6:30 p. m. it was struck by a west-bound car. Hines said the auto was going about six miles an hour when the accident occurred, and told the police that he did not hear any warning bell.

Hines was slightly injured internally and Fisher and Gallagher were cut and bruised about the legs and hands. Their injuries were dressed by Dr. J. H. Barte of 1469 Hodiamont avenue.

TWO PHOTOS OF MARJORIE HAMILTON, THE FAMOUS "CALENDAR GIRL," SHOWING HER REDUCTION OF 37 LBS. IN FIVE WEEKS.

Marjorie Hamilton, known throughout America as the famous "Calendar Girl," is now recognized as the greatest known expert in the art of fat reduction, and she practices only simple, natural methods in reducing double chin and excess fat.

She is acknowledged as the highest-priced exclusive photographic model for art calendars in America, demanding one hundred dollars per hour from noted "Calendar Houses" for her time. Realizing that an abundance of superfluous flesh would no longer keep her in mad demand by photographic artists, she set about to reduce her increasing weight by a marvelously simple method of her own.

No harmful drugs or terrible massaging; no sweating; no painful physical culture exercises; no starvation diet; nothing to take internally; no poison stuff to rub on body and none of the old, ridiculous harmful drug methods are used in her splendid new treatment.

J. Cuningham, 4295 Portland Av., writes in and says he considers this the most scientific fat-reducing treatment in the world.

The free book of this Queen of Beauty explains to men and women how, by her natural, harmless treatment, they may reduce ponderous weight at the rate of one pound or more daily. How any man or woman may banish double chin quickly and regain new health and vigor.

Readers will be astonished to learn for the first time of a really new, marvelous combination of methods of FAT REDUCTION, as referred to in this splendid book, and now offered free to readers for a short time.

A letter from W. L. Schmitz, from Montevideo, Minn., states by this treatment he lost 17 pounds in fifteen days, and he is the happiest man in the world; that he is now losing 2 pounds daily.

You will be amazed to know how rapidly you may reduce your double chin and excess fat by following her instructions and using her new combination treatment. All fat men and women of any age who desire to make themselves more attractive should secure this wonderful book free at once and improve their figure quickly by her methods.

Mrs. Jessie Ring says she lost 14 pounds the first week.

This book is written in a fascinating style. It explains how, by her treatment, this famous photographic model, who is the raging "Calendar Girl" of the present time, reduced her own weight THIRTY-SEVEN POUNDS in FIVE WEEKS by purely natural methods, and without resorting to drugs, starvation diet, or harmful external stuff to rub on the body, or harmful exercises. It is said her new treatment is similar to that used by famous French actresses and court ladies of Europe, who dare not grow fat.

Write her at once, and learn the anguish she felt when her girlish beauty started to develop abnormal proportions. Read the terrors she felt when the monster fat made her realize she must give up her profession and fade into oblivion.

Learn how she experimented, and with determination and grit conquered fat; learn of these things so you may improve your own form and destroy your fat so it will not be longer necessary for you to subject yourself to the awful dangers of excessive flesh.

Violent exercises, starvation diets and worthless drugs, also harmful external stuff to rub on her body, were all of no benefit. So, realizing that if she desired to longer continue as the star in her profession, and be longer sought after by art calendar houses of America and Europe, she must do something quick to prevent the enemy fat from destroying her beauty, she studied on an entirely original and different plan, and after repeated efforts and many failures made what she considers a wonderful scientific discovery, by means of which she has perfected a treatment which actually reduces the weight in a remarkably short time, and adds to the strength and health of the individual with every pound taken off.

This woman's remarkable success has amazed her friends, who stand aghast in astonishment, marveling at her wondrous skill. Her method is so simple, yet it is looked upon with curiosity and admiration. By this system and her combination treatment any person should reduce their flesh in the privacy of their own homes without medical assistance, in many instances at the rate of one pound or more daily.

Mrs. C. Bell writes in a grateful letter, stating she is losing a pound a day.

Mrs. L. Palmer writes the new treatment is wonderful and the safest thing she ever used. She lost nine and one-half pounds the first few days, and states her abdomen is four inches smaller.

It is simply astonishing the number of men and women who write in, regarding the wonderful results of her new process for banishing fat.

Mrs. H., of California, writes in and says:

"The second week after using your treatment and new system, I lost eight and one-half pounds. So delighted was I that I kept right on using it, until at the end of the fifth week I had lost thirty-two pounds, and felt like a new woman. My health has improved, my headaches have entirely left me, and what delights me most is that while using your simple method I kept right on eating everything I craved. I consider your system the only perfect one known for a speedy and sure reduction of flesh."

Much interest is shown in this new remarkable method by letters from distinguished physicians, which proves that even doctors are obliged to give up drugs and acknowledge this woman's combination treatment superior to all others.

The distinguished physician, Dr. Walter Robinson, writes in and says:

"It is with much pleasure that I offer congratulations upon this splendid method of treatment for the reduction of superfluous flesh and double chin. Nothing, in my opinion, could be more effective. This is the only scientific method of treatment endorsed by the medical profession. I consider your method of treatment not only original, but remarkably clever, and the only truly scientific way to reduce superfluous flesh and double chin harmlessly and quickly."

Miss Eliza La Velle writes in and says: "The treatment is most wonderful; so easy to use and so rapid. It was such relief not to be obliged to use medicine or dreadful exercises. I ate all I wanted, yet kept right on reducing."

Enthusiastic letters as the above should be indisputable evidence of the remarkable merits of this treatment. The delightful letters from satisfied users which are being received from fat men and women are regarded as strictly confidential. Miss Hamilton considering it a great breach of confidence to permit publication of the addresses of those kind enough to express their heartfelt gratitude to her.

The most astonishing part of this fat-reducing method is that it does not create wrinkles or leave the skin flabby, but, on the contrary, it has a tendency to tighten flesh; something not usually attempted by other methods.

All readers who wish to give up harmful diet, starvation methods; who wish to abandon the harmful internal and external remedies and painful exercises, should write for a copy of her latest work, so that they may learn how it is possible with her combination treatment to at once begin the reduction of burdensome flesh by using her combination methods.

Simply cut out coupon below and mail it at once, with your address plainly written. Ask her to send everything she agrees to send, ENTIRELY FREE, and DON'T SEND ANY MONEY, because this book of particulars is entirely free, as this charming "Calendar Girl" is so grateful for her own reduction, brought about by her simple method, that she is doing her utmost to benefit men and women in need of a perfect home treatment which will benefit those burdened with superfluous flesh, and thereby make life really worth while.

She offers $1000 in cash if she fails to prove the superiority of her methods over all others, and $1000 for any medicine or a single harmful thing can be found in any part of her combination treatment.

Weak Heart

Many people suffer from weak hearts. They may experience shortness of breath on exertion, pain over the heart, or dizzy feelings, oppressed breathing after meals or their eyes become blurred, their heart is not sufficiently strong to pump blood to the extremities, and they have cold hands and feet, or poor appetite because of weakened blood supply to the stomach. A heart tonic and alterative should be taken which has no bad after-effect. Such is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which contains no dangerous narcotics nor alcohol.

The ingredients, as attested under oath, are Stone root (Collinsonia Canadensis), Bloodroot (Sanguinaria Canadensis), Golden Seal root (Hydrastis Canadensis), Queen's root (Stillingia Sylvatica), Black Cherrybark (Prunus Virginiana), Mandrake root (Podophyllum Peltatum), with triple refined glycerine, prepared in a scientific laboratory in a way that no druggist could imitate.

This tonic contains no alcohol to shrink up the red blood corpuscles; but, on the other hand, it increases their number and they become round and healthy. It helps the human system in the constant manufacture of rich, red blood. It helps the stomach to assimilate or take up the proper elements from the food, thereby helping digestion and curing dyspepsia, heart-burn and many uncomfortable symptoms, stops excessive tissue waste in convalescence from fevers; for the run-down, anæmic, thin-blooded people, the "Discovery" is refreshing and vitalizing. Stick to this safe and sane remedy, and refuse all "just as good" medicines offered by the druggist who is looking for a larger profit. Nothing but Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will do you half as much good.

KIEL FACTION READY TO ACT FRIDAY NIGHT

Chairman's Supporters Hope to Put Reorganization Program Through.

The anti-administration faction of the House of Delegates probably will attempt to carry out their reorganization program Friday night. The plan is to oust Joseph A. Lawton as Speaker and elect Delegate Ebrecht or some other Kiel man as his successor.

The Kiel men have had reorganization plans under way for some weeks, although Chairman Kiel of the Republican City Committee declared that he was not concerned in what the House does.

The anti-administration faction claims enough votes to reorganize. The hospital bill will be passed Friday night if the Kiel faction is in control of the House. The bill has been passed by the Council.

SWINDLERS STEAL $10

Short-Change Men Work Old Game on Saloon Keeper.

Stephen S. Daniels, a saloon keeper, 730 Clark avenue, complained to the police Friday that two men swindled him out of $10 Thursday night. He said one of the men ordered a drink and presented a $20 bill in payment. The other man bought cigars and proffered $10 in payment.

They then told him to give them the $20 bill and they would give him some small change. Daniels said the change was juggled back and forth and after calculating for several hours after they left he found he was out $10.

Fire and water caused $1000 damage to the Colonial room at Lippe's restaurant in the basement of the Chemical Building Thursday night. The flames were discovered at 11:30 p. m., an hour after a dinner party had left the room.

Difficulties in finding an outlet for the water with which firemen flooded the room added to the damage.

WITH WATER ALL REMOVED MAINE IS STILL DEEP IN MUD

Months Will Be Required to Uncover Portions of Battleship From Bottom of Harbor.

PARTS HAVE DISAPPEARED

Hope That Body of Assistant Engineer Merritt Will Be Found in His Cabin.

By Associated Press.

HAVANA, July 21.—The water in the dam surrounding the Maine has been removed, showing the wreck embedded in the mud from an estimated depth of 37 feet around the afterpart of the vessel to an indeterminable depth. That part of the ship immediately forward of the central superstructure, which was demolished, has disappeared except for some jagged pieces of rusted steel protruding above the slime.

The engineers began the work of drawing out the soft mud by suction today. Simultaneously they will begin the work of dissecting the great confused masses of metal.

The bow section, represented by the plates and beams of the bottom of the ship, now stands upward of 20 feet high. All portions of this section have been fully identified, including the remains of water tanks originally located on the lowest deck and apparently not affected by the explosion. All these parts have been photographed for future examination and to confirm the identification prior to the dissection of the wreckage.

Great Cantilever Formed.

A curious feature resulting from the total removal of the water is that the amidships section of the main deck and the central superstructure, remaining practically level, constitute in effect a great cantilever, sustaining their own weight without any direct undersupport.

All the structural members of the ship beneath this section have been destroyed and the cavity has been half filled with mud. The section of the berth deck on which were the wardroom and the officers' staterooms is fully exposed; but is almost entirely filled with mud, especially on the port side, the removal of which will be slow and difficult.

Hope to Find Engineer's Body.

Hopes are entertained that in this section may be found the body of Assistant Engineer Merritt, who is believed to have been in his stateroom at the time of the disaster. Some fire scorched bones were discovered this afternoon in the vicinity of the overturned conning tower, where the remains of probably four bodies were previously found. It is believed these were members of the crew who at the moment of the explosion were sleeping in hammocks suspended from the ceiling of the forward berth deck, which was blown up and folded back over the central superstructure 50 feet aft of its original position. The remains offer no hope of identification.

In view of the total demolition of the crew berthing space, hopes diminish that any considerable number of bodies will be recovered. From present indications three or four months will elapse before the mud surrounding the wreck is removed and all portions of the ship made visible.

TRIES TO BEAT HIS WIFE ONCE TOO OFTEN

Mrs. Tony Dudeck Gets a Brick and Husband Is Now in the Hospital.

Tony Dudeck, described in the police reports as a "chronic wife-beater," attempted to beat his wife, Rosa, once too often. He is in the city hospital in a critical condition from a fracture of the skull.

Mrs. Dudeck told the police that he came home drunk Thursday night and choked and beat her. She went into the back yard and got a half brick. When he attempted to renew the beating she hit him on the head with the brick and he fell. She called the police. He had a scalp wound and was unconscious.

Mrs. Dudeck, who is 27 years old and lives at 1440 North Eleventh street, is held by the police on a charge of disturbing the peace of her husband. The police say if Dudeck recovers they will place a charge of disturbing the peace of his wife against him.

POLICEMAN FATALLY WOUNDS HOLDUP MEN

Surprises Two of Them in Act of Robbing Saloon in Helena, Mont.

HELENA, Mont., July 21.—Policeman O'Connell, shortly after midnight surprised two holdup men in the act of robbing Swanson's saloon on Helena avenue, and shot and perhaps fatally wounded both of them.

The holdups fired two shots at the policeman, without effect. The two men believed to be dying were rushed to a hospital.

Swanson's saloon was held up twice in the last two months. Four men were lined up when the policeman entered.

At the hospital the men gave their names as George Smith of Minneapolis and John Sweeney, recently from Ireland. Smith was shot in the stomach. Sweeney was shot three times.

FOES OF 50 YEARS AGO REUNITED ON BULL RUN'S FIELD

Soldiers of Both North and South March in Friendship at First Battle Scene.

PRESIDENT TAFT A GUEST

He Motors Down From Washington Over Roads Along Which Federal Retreated.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Over the same dusty roads that 50 years ago swarmed with thousands of Union soldiers hastening back to Washington from the first Battle of Bull Run President Taft motored today to Manassas, Va., to speak at the semi-centennial reunion of the blue and gray veterans.

Senator Martin and Representative Carlin of Virginia, Secretary Hilles and Maj. Butt accompanied the President. The speech at Manassas will be made late this afternoon, the presidential party having planned to stop at Fairfax Courthouse, Va., for luncheon with State Senator Thornton.

The President expected to return to the White House in time for dinner.

MANASSAS, July 21.—Thin lines of veterans of the blue and the gray with halting steps advanced toward each other and, meeting, clasped hands in fraternal greeting at noon today on historic Bull Run battlefield, where 50 years ago they were engaged in the first great battle of the war between the states.

This, one of the crowning events of the Manassas Peace Jubilee, was witnessed by 6000 persons, including many of prominence.

During the morning the old soldiers assembled at the Henry House, the center of the fighting during the battle. An address of welcome was made by Col. Edmund Berkeley of the Eighth Virginia Regiment, to which responses were made by Gen. George W. Gordon, grand commander of the United Confederate Veterans, and Gen. John E. Gilman, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

A souvenir badge, the gift of Col. Robert H. Thompson, was then presented to each veteran.

A luncheon and "love feast" followed the return from Bull Run to Manassas.

Program for Day.

The following program had been arranged for the day:

9 a. m.—Veterans in blue and gray assemble at Henry House, on battlefield.

10 a. m.—Addresses of welcome by Col. Edmund Berkeley, Eighth Virginia, and United States Senator Thomas S. Martin of Virginia.

Responses by Gen. John E. Gilman, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, and Gen. George T. Gordon, grand commander of the United Confederate Veterans.

Presentation of souvenir badges by Col. Robert H. Thompson of Washington.

Noon—Veterans marshaled in review, and the men in the blue and gray clasp hands.

1 p. m.—Luncheon and "love feast."

2 p. m.—Return to Manassas.

4 p. m.—Forty-eight young women, representing the states of the Union, clasp hands and, forming a circle, sing the Manassas National Jubilee Anthem.

4:30 p. m.—Addresses by the Governor of Virginia.

6:30 p. m.—Luncheon tendered to Gov. Mann by Mrs. Robert A. Porter at Annaburg.

7:30 p. m.—Public reception of the President and Governor at Annaburg.

It was on July 21, 1861, justy 50 years ago, that Bull Run, or the first battle of Manassas, was fought. The Confederates under Johnson were accredited with a decisive victory over the Union forces under McDowell, the retreat of the Federals leaving practically a clear road to Washington for the Confederates, it is said, had they chosen to continue their advance on the capital.

First Real Battle.

This was the first real battle of the war, and its result awakened the North for the first time to a realization of what the secession of the Southern States meant. It was here that "Stonewall" Jackson gained the name which will be associated with his memory for all time.

In August, 1862, Manassas was again the scene of a bloody battle. Lee and Longstreet and Sykes, Reno and Reynolds fought to a draw, the battle lines being exactly the reverse of what they were the year before.

The Jubilee Reunion was planned by committees of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans. Interesting events have taken place each day this week, sessions of the national organization of "The Blue and the Gray and Their Sons" being held today.

MOUNTAIN STILL BURNING

Fires on Cumberland Destroy Great Timber Tracts.

AMHERST, N. C., July 21.—Clouds of smoke visible 30 miles away float above the fires on the Cumberland Mountains, which still rage with unabated fury. Today the flames threaten the village of Shulee and have spread to Two Rivers, and River Herbert, where men are engaged in an apparently hopeless fight to check them.

Six thousand acres of the Shulee Lumber Co.'s land have been swept and lumber firms at Port Greville are also heavy losers. There has been no rain for 10 days.

Auto Fatally Hurts Farmer.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 21.—Ernest C. Mueller, a wealthy farmer, north of the city, was impaled on a pole when, in seeking to reverse his automobile, he threw on the high speed instead, and the car went over a 10-foot embankment. Mueller was probably fatally injured.

$10,000,000 Wanted for Ministers.

PHILADELPHIA, July 21.—A committee appointed by the Presbyterian General Assembly has been conferring in this city for two days upon a plan for raising $10,000,000 for the relief of aged Presbyterian ministers and will report to the general assembly's executive committee at Spring Lake, N. J., Aug. 1.

Former Shah's Coming Feared.

TEHERAN, Persia, July 21.—News that the former Shah, Mohammed Ali Mirza, is hurrying to the capital has caused great consternation. The Government has declared martial law, and the Bakhtia chiefs have offered 5000 men to defend Teheran, but they cannot arrive in time.

Bresnahan and Coca-Cola

have Cardinal features in common. With Bresnahan in the game everybody is snappy, lively, "stick-to-itive". No leg weariness or brain slowness then. Same with Coca-Cola—its snap, vim, vigor and go make hot weather a joke; weariness a stranger and thirst only an excuse to quench it with the real palate tickler. So no wonder Bresnahan likes, drinks and recommends Coca-Cola.

$3 BRIDGE WORK A TOOTH

ABOUT THE MOUTH AND TEETH

The mouth is the prime factor of beauty and the most expressive feature of the human countenance. The whole face loses its charm if the mouth exhibits a lot of decayed, unsightly teeth. You can keep your countenance beautiful if your teeth are properly cared for. "Tooth pullers" will destroy the beauty of the teeth, but a reliable dentist will improve your looks by saving your teeth instead of destroying them.

It would seem that everyone would want nothing but the best in dentistry, but many people will sacrifice lasting quality for low price and in the end the work is no good.

BASEBALL-ROWING HERE AND THERE IN THE SPORT WORLD GOLF-ATHLETICS

MATTY LOOKS LIKE ANY OTHER PITCHER TO OUR "CLIMBERS"

But Failure of Sallee to "Stick Out" Thursday's Game Embarasses Roger's Plans.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 21.

ONCE upon a time, and it wasn't a very long time ago a ball team from St. Louis came to the National League Park, where the Giants were temporarily domiciled.

They were received wtih more or less acclaim because they were expected to contribute to the prosperity of the Giants in the matter of games won.

To make assurance doubly sure John McGraw, the Napoleon of baseball, sent Mathewson in to pitch.

Mathewson retired the Cardinals in the opening inning without trouble—"with ridiculous ease," as it used to be the fashion to say in describing easily won horse races out in St. Louis, in the fat old days. And then the Giants fell upon Sallee, batted him freely, nagged him into giving bases on balls and brought about his downfall. They treated Bob Harmon, who succeeded him, in the same cavalier manner, and Mr. Harmon sunk his head between his broad shoulders and retired and the Giants finished out the inning with something like thirteen runs, which savored more of cricket than of baseball.

Whereupon "Napoleon" McGraw made a laughing remark to the mighty Mathewson, who smiled sardonically as he walked to the clubhouse and Rube Marquard took his place. That was while Marquard was still referred to as the "$11,000 joke," before he became the fashionable winning pitcher he is just now. Matty was too good to be wasted on the Cardinals and was to be saved for worthier foes.

Oh, How Different.

Yesterday the self-same Cardinals came to New York again, this time to the unfinished polo grounds, where the crowds who attend the game broil in the sun in the roofless grand stand of magnificent proportions. Mathewson again strode to the center of the diamond, but, alas, how different things were. The Cardinals immediately began to do the "striding." They batted Mathewson with a freedom and regularity that put the iron into his soul and the first innings netted two runs. When Bresnahan opened the second inning with a two-base hit and despised Sallee popped a little fly that by a little cooperative boneheadedness, Mathewson and Fletcher let drop safe between them, Mathewson lost all jauntiness. When Miller Huggins drew a base on balls and Hauser followed with a stinging single, his last shred of confidence was gone and without a word he tossed the ball to Meyers and "strode" back again, this time toward the clubhouse.

Crandall was then called in and the great batting strength of the Cardinals gradually frittered away and after the fourth inning Crandall held them entirely safe. But in those four innings they had gathered eight runs, which was enough to overbalance the five the Giants were able to gather.

Sallee Began to Crack.

Sallee had the Giants at his mercy for five innings. In the sixth he began to show signs of weakening, the first evidence being Doyle's sharp single to center. Snodgrass got a solid rap to right, but Evans got under it and then Murray lifted clean into the left field bleachers for a home run. This worried Sallee and after Ellis had a hard run for Merkle's mighty smash, Sal passed the next two, but Mowrey saved the day by making a great stop and throwing out Meyers.

Sallee was apparently up in the air, but he might have steadied down and got by if Hauser had not made such a villainously bad throw of Crandall's grounder in the seventh, allowing the pitcher to get to second. Then, after Wilson, batting for Devore, had filed to Ellis, Koney worried Sallee by letting Doyle's smash get past him for a single. Koney made a stab at it with one hand and diverted it, but it looked as though he had time to jump in front of it and use both hands on it.

Then, after Snodgrass had sent Doyle home with a sacrifice fly, Murray sent the ball to the left field fence for a three-base hit and Roger called Harmon to the slab. Harmon easily got Merkle, and had little trouble holding the Giants hitless the rest of the way.

Roger in Pitching Muddle.

His relief work was so slight that it will hardly interfere with the plan to use him today for a full game. The disarrangement of the Cardinals' pitching plans now is a serious matter, considering the limited staff, and Harmon and Steele were depended upon for the two games which are necessary to put the Cardinals in third place. If they win today they will be tied, and there is no great reason to expect them to lose. McGraw's pitching plans were more seriously disarranged by the beating Matty got than were Bresnahan's by Sallee's failure to stick it out.

Cardinals Now Have a Shade on McGraw's Giants, This Season

ROGER'S men, by winning Thursday's game, took the advantage in the games so far played with the Giants this year. The series, up to Friday, stood five games for Roger's men and four for McGraw's.

The teams were only one game apart Friday morning, and victory in the second game meant that the clubs would tie for third place.

If the Cardinals should make it three straight by winning Saturday, too, they would be in third place—higher than the club has been in midseason for—well, the Oldest Inhabitant is doubtful.

New York Rooters Want Roger to Win the Pennant If Giants Can't

NEW YORK, July 21.

HERE is what the New York Morning World says, in part, in its comment on yesterday's game:

"It was an extraordinary afternoon at the Polo Grounds. Really, quite extraordinary. For here are these Cardinal persons, who have arrived with the good intention of dumping us to the bottom of the first division. They want right away the third place we've got. And you'd rather have expected the big midweek crowd of 12,000 persons to be there with the big boo and sodawater bottle resentment against Big Beak Roger and his Restless Rowdies.

• • •

"But no! They like Roger, up there. They remember when Roger was one of US, and it was during that time that we won the pennant. They also are there with the hip-hip emotion regarding the valiant manner in which the St. Louis one-time whatnots have developed into present somebodies.

• • •

Of the pennant, they say—the Polo Grounds crowd—if Muggsy can't make it, let Roger romp off with the rag. So here you had it yesterday—big cheers when the boy with the big beak stepped up to the plate. Applause, to, for every clever or good thing his men did. Friendly joshing and friendly cheers. Quite remarkable quite remarkable, truly."

• • •

Finneran's Work Faulty.

Umpire Finnernan, in a couple of instances in the St. Louis-Brooklyn series, gave indications of one of the causes of his troubles with players. He seems to have a very strong inclination to decide plays before they are made.

• • •

Fast as the Cardinals are, they are still lacking in some of the little details of play that go to make a perfect baseball machine. That mix-up at Brooklyn in which Bliss dropped a pop fly in front of the plate because Mowrey ran into him was due to stupidity, because the ball had gone so high there was time for every player on the team to step in and call out which of the two men should take it.

• • •

Then that near-accident in left center in the last inning of the second game at Brooklyn, when Ellis started after a long fly and then left it to McIver just as the latter had stopped running for it, should have been obviated by either Hauser or Huggins telling which of the two should do it.

• • •

The probable reason for Ellis' indecision is the fact that McIver was in center, not Oakes. Since Oakes has been out of the game Ellis has been playing further back and helping out in center, whereas with Oakes in the game, Ellis plays in and is aided by "Reb" in left.

• • •

Mowrey at His Best.

Handsome Mike Mowrey was a big factor in yesterday's game. His single in the first, with two out, brought in the two men on bases. He opened the third with a single and scored on Bresnahan's double, and on the defense, he had one put-out and five assists, and every one of those assists was on a difficult chance. He is surely putting up a sparkling game.

• • •

Ellis found Crandall a sealed book. He struck out twice, tapped one in front of the plate, on which Meyers threw him out, and forced Huggins into a run-up and out in the eighth with a tap to the pitcher.

• • •

McIver gave the St. Louis rooters a cold chill in the ninth, when Crandall sent a long fly into his territory. He first misjudged it and then had to run for it and just got to it in time, stumbling and falling as he made the catch, but he came up still holding to the ball. It was a close call.

Harmon and Wiltse Probable Pitchers in Friday's Battle

NEW YORK, July 21.

ROGER BRESNAHAN is having a hard time adjusting his pitchers to his emergencies. With Golden out, the staff is virtually cut to three men, Geyer being merely the emergency filler.

Today there is no available pitcher save Harmon, for Steele worked in the recent double-header at Brooklyn.

Harmon finished out for Sallee Thursday, but the two-and-a-fraction innings will hardly hurt. Anyway, the only way to restore the regular rotation of pitching talent is for Harmon to work.

Golden may be reinstated soon.

New York will probably use Wiltse, as southpaws have always been effective against Roger's base-hit makers.

WALLACE LOSES A BACKSTOP, BUT GETS INFIELDER

Jay Clarke Made a Threat to Quit Catching and Is Now a First Baseman.

TENTH MAN FOR THE JOB

Position Is Not New to Him and He Is Apt to Remain on Browns' Initial Bag.

JAY AUSTIN CLARKE, the tenth man to be tried out at first base and the man who will probably remain on the job for the Browns, got the assignment in Thursday's game when in a half-kidding way he threatened to quit catching.

In the clubhouse while dressing for the contest Clarke told Manager Wallace that he was seriously thinking of passing up his job at catching. "Nig" said it in a jesting way, but he really fears that the constant stooping to signal the pitcher may some day have its ill effect. He claims that the stooping is a strain on the muscles and veins in the legs and subjects one to blood trouble.

At any rate, Clarke thought Wallace paid no attention to his threat. Just before the game started Wallace told Clarke to take Dudley Criss' mitt and practice at first base. Then when the game started Jay Justin's name was announced as the Browns' first sacker.

Job Is Not a New One.

Clarke is not new to first base. He played the position before he graduated to the majors and also did duty on the first cushion in an emergency role while with the Naps. He didn't act like a novice there Thursday. Clarke turned one misplay, when he dropped a throw from Jimmy Austin. The next moment, though, Jay figured in a double play with Wallace and Laporte, cutting down the man who profited by his error.

Manager Wallace has been having a difficult time in trying to plug up the hole at first base. That Clarke is the tenth different man he has assigned to the job since March 1, is proof that the first base talent isn't much. A list of those who have preceded Clarke at the job includes J. Earl Ohl, Ben McAuley, Pat Newnam, Bill Hogan, Jimmy Murray, Dudley Criss, Jack Black, Dave Rowan and Al Duggan.

Clarke will probably get the job regularly. Surely he is the smartest one of the big troupe tried out at the position. He may have a little trouble with his foot work at the beginning, but it's a certainty that Jay knows what to do with the ball once he gets hold of it.

Lake Finally Comes Through.

Joe Lake's performance in Thursday's game was pleasing to his many admirers. There isn't a harder worker or better liked man on the club than the big Brooklyn citizen. Of late, he hasn't been going so good.

For the first time in a long while Lake got his spit ball to breaking right for him in the first matinee with the Nationals. The result was a shutout. He had the Washington batters feeding out of his hands.

If everybody pulled as hard and hustled as much as Lake does the Browns would not be at the bottom of the heap. Even with the 1910 tail-end aggregation, Lake had a great season until the windup. Then because of overwork—Lake said it was the result of playing too much golf—he slumped. But if anybody deserves to win it is the big spitball pitcher.

Barney Pelty Will Pitch.

The Browns and Nationals of Washington are scheduled to play the second game of their series on the Sportsman's Park lot Friday afternoon, starting at 3:15 o'clock. Barney Pelty will probably twirl for the Browns. Tom Hughes or Bob Groom will work for McAleer's team.

TWO ROWING CLUBS LIKELY TO GO EAST

The Central and Western Rowing Club members will hold meetings Friday night to decide whether or not to send crews to the national regatta at Saratoga, N. Y., July 28-29. The Westerns are sure to make the trip if the members of the crew are able to arrange to get away from their work.

The Mound City Rowing Club is going to send a four-oared shell, so that it is probable that St. Louis will have three fours in the race for the championship. The North Side Rowing Club of Quincy, Ill., will be represented by a double. A special railroad rate has been obtained and it is expected that quite a number of local rowing enthusiasts will make the trip East with the crews.

PACKY AND ADDIE FINALLY SIGN UP

CHICAGO, July 21.—Packy McFarland and Ad Wolgast signed articles last night for a 10-round fight in Milwaukee, September 18. McFarland agreed to weigh 133 at 3 p. m. Wolgast compelled McFarland to post $5000 for a 20-round fight later on the Coast. McFarland posted $1000 of the $5000. Wolgast appears to fear that he may be outpointed in Milwaukee.

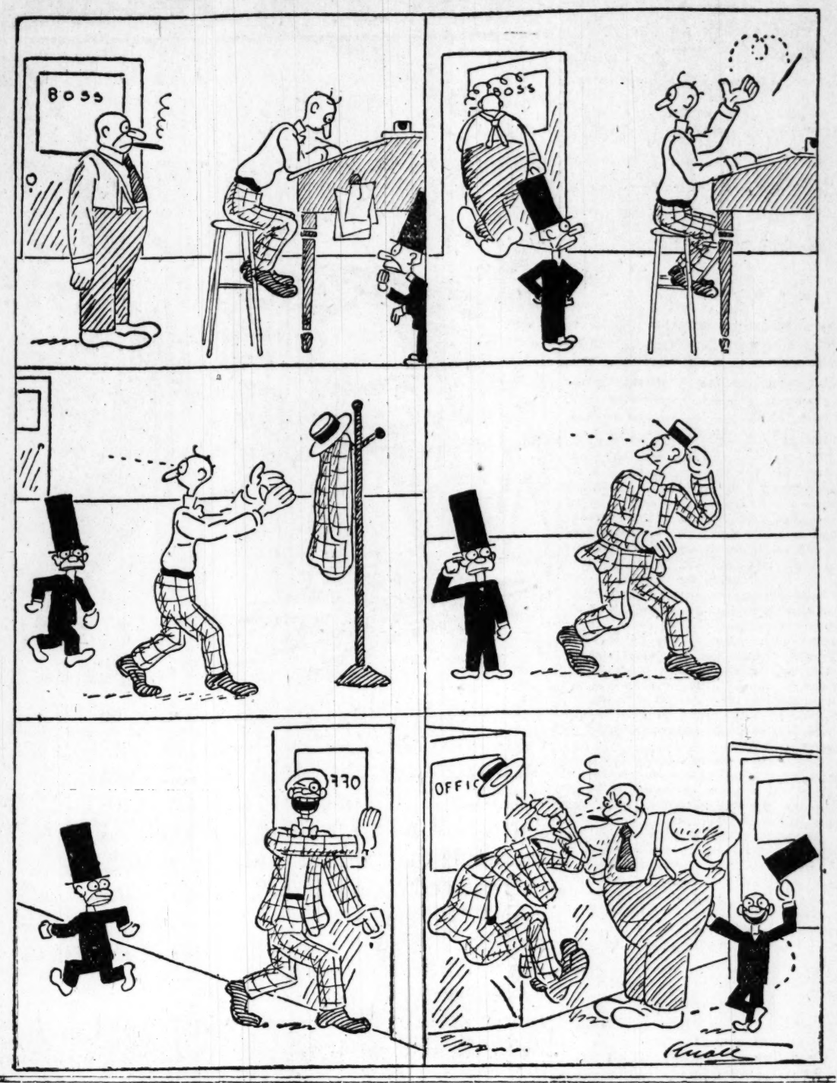
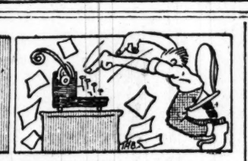
JINX —By Jean Knott



WRAY'S COLUMN.



A TANGLED SKEIN.

BAN JOHNSON'S league (alias the American), which, in its earlier stages, seemed to be specially constructed to produce the circus finishes which characterized many of its pennant courses, has no record of any season quite as replete with uncertainty as this year's scramble in the National League. Certainly it boasts none in which so many surprises have arisen to befuddle the gentleman who compiles the "dope" and banks against the judgment of the world thereon.

• • •

WHAT THE "DOPE" SHOWS.

IF you doubt, below is the record of the leading three teams for a period of over two weeks. It is a sample only, for the reality has been even more uncertain, when one remembers that Pittsburg, only recently a first division team, is still right on the heels of the leaders; and when you consider that but for the fact of the Cardinals' disorganized start they, too, would be, if not in the lead, within a mere fraction of it.

Here are the figures:

July 4	New York	Chicago	Phila.
July 5	Phila.	New York	Chicago
July 6	Phila.	Chicago	New York
July 7	Chicago	Phila.	New York
July 8	Chicago	New York	Phila.

WHERE WE STAND.

THIS seems to make the Quakers stand out as the best team of the three; it came back after faltering early in the game, and held its place in front with more consistency than the others.

When, therefore, one considers the fact that the Cardinals have won eight games out of 11 from this same Quaker team, and that their present lowly position is due to seven out of eight defeats at the hands of the Pirates, at a time when the team was in a formative state and had several stars laid up, it is enough to make even the last winter's dopester, who nailed New York in the market places as the sure winner of the race, come around and burn incense to Joss Roger.

On the premises shown, the Cardinals appear the best team in the National League.

• • •

THE MIGHTY ARE FALLEN.

IN the course of this advent of the unexpected many upheavals have taken place. The mighty have fallen; Mathewsons have tottered; Giants have been humbled; while at the same time unknowns have arisen and the despised have become famous. Witness the crippled fluttering of the Pirates and the Cubs; and the meteoric rise of the Cardinals and Quakers, whom none could see this spring.

Perhaps the most regrettable feature is the evident decline of the once great Christy Mathewson, who has now lost his last four games in rather disgraceful fashion. Philadelphia beat him in two games, pounding his curves to the tune of 27 hits in the duo of battles. That much-bandied player, Burns, a discard from three teams, was one of those who beat Matty. Richie of the Cubs beat him in their recent series, the Chicago men getting nine hits. And now come the Cardinals and drive the once great one to the bench.

It seems to spell "finis" for "Big Six," for so long the undoubted superior of all the pitching world.

But they can't last forever—not with the Climbers after them.

• • •

THE WAR IN "AFRICA."

PERHAPS no team in recent times has ever achieved such a remarkable away-from-home performance as the Cardinals own against the East this season.

Here's the record of the play, including Thursday's game, counting in both trips to the home of culture and trusts:

Cardinals	5	Phillies	2
Cardinals	8	New York	2
Cardinals	6	Boston	1
Cardinals	6	Brooklyn	2
Total	20	Total	7

This gives the club a winning percentage of .743 and shows better than anything else the superiority of the team to anything the East possesses, with the possible exception of the Giants. With Mathewson's number out, the Cardinals have little to fear from this outfit.

THE TWO BOGEY MEN.

IT is in the West that the Cardinals have the most to watch out for. Pittsburg and the Cubs have given the Cardinals most trouble and probably will continue to do so. However, the Pirates no longer have the hoodoo sign on Roger's men. If they have won a big majority of games this year, it is because of those seven early victories. When they met, later on, the Cardinals won four games out of the series of seven played.

EIGHT ST. LOUIS GOLFERS AFTER WESTERN TITLE

Eight St. Louis golfers will compete in the Western amateur golf tournament at Detroit, which opens July 22, and the City Golf Association and Missouri Golf Association will be represented by teams of four men each in the play for the Olympic cup.

Sterling Edmunds of Bellerive, T. B. Boyd of Algonquin, Dr. George F. Paine of Normandie and Kenneth Carpenter of Algonquin are the players entered to represent the State Association.

The names of all four of these players have been entered as representing the City Association, as well as the names of Christian Kenney of Algonquin, Jesse Carleton of Glen Echo, Harry Allen of Bellerive and Eddie Limberg of Normandie.

The latter players will be the four who will represent the City Association and they should form a strong team. Limberg is a young player who got into the semi-finals in the recent city championship tournament, but lost to Guy Oliver.

AUG. BELMONT FEARS RACING IS DEAD

NEW YORK, July 21.—"In my opinion this means that there will be no revival of racing in New York this year," said August Belmont, chairman of the Jockey Club, when told at his country home in Babylon of the defeat of the Gittins bill by the Assembly. "It will also mean, I think, that owners like myself will be likely to send their horses away."

NELSON AND BRITT IN A RETURN BOUT

PORTLAND, Ore., July 21.—Battling Nelson stated here that negotiations were practically concluded for a boxing match between himself and Jimmy Britt to take place before the Twentieth Century Athletic Club in New York Labor day.

Loughrey Wins From Nitchie.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Frank Loughrey of Philadelphia outpointed Young Nitchie, his fellow citizen, in a fast 10-round bout at the National Sporting Club last night. Loughrey during the first five rounds hit Nitchie hard enough to knock out two ordinary boxers, but Nitchie proved to be a veritable Joe Grim for standing punishment.

GOING UP!

THE Cards are still climbing the ladder;
All hail to the turbulent Duke!
He's got all the fans feeling gladder
Since dealing that "stinging rebuke."

They threw the harpoon into "Matty,"
Then gave it a turn and a twist;
It seems he has either gone batty
Or lost the old twist of his wrist.

However, there's one consolation
Remains for the famous "Big Six";
Star pitchers all over the nation
Have bowed to the Cardinals' sticks.

If they've got any more fancy flingers
They'd like to inject in the strife,
Our Cards, with their terrible stingers,
Will give 'em a touch of high life.

Be it Ames, be it Marquard or Drucke,
They all look alike to the Duke;
And they'd be most remarkably lucky
To win from the Cards by a "fluke."

Hats off to the Cardinal climbers,
The boys who are coming so clean!
According to all the old timers
Their equals have never been seen.

GOESSLING WILL AGAIN SWIM IN TEN-MILE RACE

Winner of the First River Event Here Will Begin Training at Once.

August M. Goessling, winner of the first 10-mile swim held in the Mississippi, under the auspices of the Missouri A. C., five years ago, will again compete this year and will start training for the race, to be held Aug. 19. With Harry Handy in the Philippines and "Bud" Goodwin of New York out of the race, Goessling stands an excellent chance of winning.

Goessling defeated Handy in the first race, but it was not for the national championship on that occasion. It was a handicap affair, with Handy on scratch and Goessling allowed a slight time allowance on the Windy City paddler.

Goessling is at his best when the river is rough, because he is a past master of the breast-stroke, having held the national championship and record for this style of swimming. He goes under the rollers like a fish, while the other swimmers are forced to ride over the waves.

If the river is smooth, Chauncey Heath, also of the Missouri A. C., and who is Frank Sullivan's choice to win, will be mighty hard to beat, as Heath will swim a fast crawl stroke for the entire 10 miles, provided he is not attacked with cramps.

BOBBY CHARLTON TO TURN PROFESSIONAL

Bobby Charlton of the Missouri A. C., one of the cleverest little bantamweights in the city, and who gained a decision over Bobby Gresham, and Eddie Meyers, another crack 105-pound amateur fighter, have decided to turn professional and will furnish one of the bouts at the next show of the Mozart Society at the Coliseum, Saturday evening, Aug. 5.

Meyers has been trying to get a bout with Bobby Gresham for some time, but was unable to get Gresham to meet him. Meyers is clever and has a hard punch. Charlton is stocky, hard to hurt and aggressive. The boys will box six rounds.

After the match the "Sailor," Papke will try to obtain a return engagement with "Cyclone" Johnny Thompson, who won a decision over him in Australia.

KING PROMISES ENOUGH NEW PEERS TO PASS VETO BILL

Premier Asquith Announces Position of George V in a Letter to A. J. Balfour.

WON'T TAKE ANY CHANCES

Government Won't Place Measure at Mercy of Peers Until Assurance of Passage.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, July 21.—King George has given Premier Asquith his promise to appoint as many new peers as will be necessary to pass the veto bill. This was announced this afternoon by the Premier in a letter addressed to A. J. Balfour and read at a caucus of Unionist peers at Lord Lansdowne's house.

The political problem has narrowed down now to differences between Lord Lansdowne and the Earl of Halsbury as to the future Unionist action on the veto bill and today's cabinet council had to make provision to meet a possible hostile demonstration on the part of the "Last Ditchers."

No Chance for Wreck.

Lord Lansdowne seemingly would be satisfied with Premier Asquith's assurance that he has authority to create all the peers necessary, but the Earl of Halsbury demands an ocular demonstration and, as his following is an unknown quantity, the Government cannot afford to take the risk of being outvoted, as they might be if they created only a small preliminary batch of peers.

The Cabinet meeting lasted two hours and, as a result of the conference, the peers will be given no chance of wrecking the bill when it is sent back from the House of Commons.

Unless Premier Asquith is assured that the Government measure will be passed, it will not be placed again at the mercy of the peers until sufficient radicals have been given patents of nobility to assure its acceptance.

MinorConcessions.

It is surmised that Askuith may see his way to giving the lords to understand that certain minor concessions might be made, such as removing the matter of the protestant succession from the operation of the suspensory veto and also promise that no alterations of the veto bill further restricting the legislative powers of the upper house will be made before a general election.

While the cabinet was in session the unionists held a twohours' caucus at the residence of A. J. Balfour, the leader of the opposition in the lower chamber.

NEWLANDS EXPLAINS BILL

Says It Will Be Easy to Regulate Corporations.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Senator Newlands today explained the provisions of his corporation bill in the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce. He contended that the proposed commission would be as useful in the regulation of miscellaneous corporations as is the Interstate Commerce Commission in regulating railroads. The bill does not empower the commission to fix prices.

Clock Work in Freight Service

There is nothing so exasperating to your customer, or so likely to lose his patronage, as delayed or "bad condition" shipments. Often the particular consignment delayed is material that would only be salable if received "on time." Many cancelled orders and even cancelled customers can be directly traced to the inefficient freight service which is chosen. Whether you are a manufacturer, jobber or commission man, you cannot be too particular about the quality of freight service you employ.

If your house deals with any part of the Southwest, the Cotton Belt Route is prepared to show you what a valuable partner in the promotion of your business there, its efficient freight service can be. The Cotton Belt Route (St. L. S. W. Ry. and St. L. S. W. Ry. of Texas.)

Maintains the quickest and most regular fast freight service of any road to the Southwest

—to points in Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona and California; and provides through package cars to the principal points in the Southwest. Cotton Belt fast through freights are timed and checked as closely as its passenger trains; and, as a consequence, they have an unusual record for maintained "quick time" schedules on all classes of freight. Whether you are a large or small shipper, you would profit immensely by the fast and safe transportation of your goods—which the Cotton Belt Route offers Southwest.

Perishable shipments from the Southwest are given the right-of-way over all other freight and the most infinite pains are taken to see that they arrive in "condition." Commission men can realize of what immense value such a service can be to their business. A conversation or correspondence with H. D. Landry, Commercial Agent, 211 N. Eighth St., or with one of the undersigned, would bring out advantages which the Cotton Belt freight service offers your particular line that would, otherwise, never have occurred to you. Will you not give them the opportunity to get in touch with you? Please write or call today.

Complete passenger service Southwest:

The principal cities and sections of the Southwest are within easy reach of St. Louis via Cotton Belt Route—the quick and direct line to Arkansas and Texas. The Cotton Belt Route operates two splendid trains daily from St. Louis, leaving at 9:30 a. m. and 10:30 p. m.—equipped with modern through sleepers, chair cars and parlor-cafe cars. For the inducement of homeseekers and investors who want to look over the Southwest, the Cotton Belt operates low fare excursions on the first and third Tuesdays of each month. There will be

Low Fare Excursions August 1st and 15th

You should be on one of these excursions. The Southwest will never hold out so great an opportunity for you as NOW. Let the next Cotton Belt excursion take you there. The cost of ticket is much less than the regular fare; allows stopovers free and gives you 25 days to look around.

REED WANTS EVEN INDIRECT BUYING OF TOGA, FELONY

Missouri Senator Declares Campaign Publicity Bill, With the Amendments He Has Tacked On, Does Not Go Far Enough Into Subject.

WOULD STRIKE AT ROUNDABOUT BRIBE

Believes Lack of Secrecy Will Enable Voters to Keep Check on Sources of Financial Support and Those Who Profit by It.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Senator Reed of Missouri does not believe that the Rucker campaign publicity bill, now before the House with the Senate amendments, goes far enough. He would make the purchasing of a seat in Congress by any sort of hook or crook a felony.

"I hold this," he said to the Post-Dispatch correspondent, "that if every political committee had to expose to the public the source and disposition of its contributions to the last dollar, it would have three good effects:

"First, it would make committeemen careful not to go to bad sources for contributions and would deter them, in effect, from selling their candidates for money to carry their elections. Money given to elect a man may be as real a bribe and may as completely control his vote as that paid for his vote after he is elected. This does not follow, but it often happens.

"Second, a disclosure of the names of those who received the money tends to force the proper use and deter the improper use of money. It also has a tendency to limit the use of money. One may use money, but he does not like to have it published.

"Third, publicity of the use of large sums of money tends to arouse public sentiment feelingly against the candidate who uses large sums and creates sympathy for the man of limited means.

"The Rucker bill, so far as it provides for publicity, is all right, and it had my support and not my opposition. But, as I said in the Senate, we are confronted by this condtition: While the rulings in Congress have been that if a man be convicted of actually buying votes and other corrupt practices, the House or Senate is warranted in unseating him, still no provision in this bill and no precedents make the use of vast sums of money in itself sufficient to bar one from a seat in Congress, notwithstanding the fact that the use of great sums of money may have the effect generally of sowing seeds of corruption broadcast in a community, as was done in Adams County, O.

"If such things are sanctioned by the public, only rich men will be elected to office.

"To apply this concretely: It appears that Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin spent $107,000 to secure his nomination, he holds a seat in Congress that he could not have obtained any other way than through the use of money.

"What I desire is to have the law so framed that if a man spends more than permitted by law, he is guilty of a violation of the statutes, and upon these grounds can be expelled from Congress.

"I put that provision in my amendment, but could not obtain a roll call on it and withdrew it and added a clause to prohibit more than a certain amount.

"My measure now provides that no candidate shall spend more than 10 cents for each voter in his district or State. If he spends more than that sum he can be barred."

"What about the Wisconsin primary that you referred to in advocating your amendment?" was asked.

"I got my information from the report of the Legislative Committee that investigated the nomination of Senator Stephenson. More than $200,000 was spent in that campaign. Senator Stephenson is charged with buying all the game wardens through the chief Game Warden. It is alleged that $50,000 was paid for the main man.

"The report shows that Stephenson paid out $107,790.05, the smallest sum being $225.06 and the largest $53,729.56. His opponents turned in expense accounts as follows: Samuel A. Cook, $29,023.07; Francis E. McGovern, $11,063.88; William H. Hatton, $26,413; Neal Brown, $1000; Melvin A. Hoyt, $204, and Jacob Rummel nothing.

What Each Vote Cost.

"The Legislative Committee supplemented the account of Cook, increasing it to $42,293.29, and declared that Rummel paid $1 a vote for what he received.

"Stephenson paid $1.89 for every vote he got; Cook, 88 cents; Hatton, 85 cents; McGovern, 26; Brown, 42, and Hoyt, 16.

"The report indicates that Stephenson and Hatton gave money to candidates for the Legislature. One member of the investigating committee had received pay from one of the candidates. The campaigns of at least a dozen candidates for the Legislature were financed by the candidates for the Senate."

The report quoted from by Reed shows that Senator Stephenson gave $24,000 to Senator La Follette's campaign fund. This was done through Herman L. Ekern.

"I have a speech made by Tully Scott, nominating Charles S. Thomas in the Colorado Legislature to oppose Guggenheim," said Senator Reed. "It says:

"'I am advised that pending the so-called contest for the governorship two years ago, and when the corporation managers were in some distress, Mr. Guggenheim was called into a room in this city (Denver) to meet 12 others, who proposed that in consideration of immediate payment of $50,000 by Mr. Guggenheim to carry on the contest, these 12 men would pledge him their support for the senatorship, accompanied by a statement that he could not doubt the certainty of his election with their support. That after securing the individual pledge in the presence of others Mr. Guggenheim consented and paid this initial payment on his purchase in advance.

"'It must be said to their credit that these gentlemen kept faith, that it was a square deal and through their efforts and a prudent distribution of Mr. Guggenheim's further advances they have succeeded in inducing the people to enable them this day to make final exchange of the office for his gold.'

"That is a fearful charge to make," said Senator Reed.

HEIRESS OF FAMOUS NEW YORK FAMILY WHO IS ENGAGED TO WED

Miss DOROTHY WHITNEY ©by PAUL THOMPSON N.Y.

DOROTHY WHITNEY, WORTH $6,000,000 ENGAGED TO WED

Is to Become Bride of Willard D. Straight—Ceremony Probably in the Fall.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The engagement of Miss Dorothy Whitney to wed Willard D. Straight is announced here by her brother, Harry Payne Whitney. She is traveling in Europe with friends. Miss Whitney is the youngest child of the late William C. Whitney and has $6,000,000 in her own right.

Straight Experienced in Consular Service and Has Worked for Morgan.

OSWEGO, N. Y., July 21.—Willard D. Straight of this city, whose engagement to Dorothy P. Whitney, daughter of the late William C. Whitney, former Secretary of the Navy, is announced, is a son of the late Prof. Willard D. Straight, formerly a member of the faculty of the Oswego State Normal and Training School.

He was born in this city 30 years ago, but went with his father when a child to Japan and from there to China, where the elder Straight was a missionary.

After being graduated from Cornell in the class of 1901 with the degree of B. A., he was appointed to a position in the Chinese customs service under Sir Robert Hart. From that position he went as secretary to United States Consul Morgan at Corea, then with Morgan to Cuba. Next he was sent to Mukden as United States Consul. It was there he met a daughter of the late E. H. Harriman and their engagment was announced by the newspapers, but never officially by the family of the young woman or by Straight.

When J. P. Morgan & Co. were searching for a young man to go to China to get a piece of the loan for developing China railroads Straight was picked for the job at a salary of $50,000 a year. He is still with the banking syndicate.

WOMAN LAWYER IS TO REPRESENT MRS. DE FOREST

Inventor's Wife Sued for Divorce Puts Her Case in Hands of One of Own Sex.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 21.—There was a family council at the Blatch cottage, at Shoreham, L. I., today on the cross-suits for divorce brought by Dr. Lee de Forest in California.

There were present Judge Stanton, brother of Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, and other members of the family. After several hours' discussion Mrs. Blatch, the militant suffragette, mother-in-law of Dr. de Forest, announced that the family would maintain absolute silence on the matter of divorce.

Lets Warning Go By.

She refused to make any comments on Dr. de Forest's remarks about biological husbands and his warning to young men not to marry into families tainted by suffrage.

"When I talk, I talk to the point," said Mrs. Blatch, "but I can't talk even broadly on this."

Lawyer Bertha Rembaugh said that she was preparing the complaint in Mrs. de Forest's case for separation, and that she would file it in Suffolk County soon.

"I am not concerning myself about this case," said Mrs. Blatch. "I am already outlining the fall campaign for suffrage, and my hands are full.

F. Warren Wright, attorney for Dr. de Forest, has agreed with Lawyer Bertha Rembaugh to accept service in the complaint that Miss Rembaugh is preparing. The last time De Forest was in Shoreham he came down in one car and his wife in another of the same train, and on the platform was the suffrage baby, with her nurse, to receive them both.

Grandmother Rears Baby.

The De Forest baby is 2 years old, talks a little, and her grandmother is bringing her up in true Spartan fashion, to be a fit leader of future suffrage movements.

She is being reared on a bottle, sleeps out of doors on a porch at night and is taken out in all sorts of weather. This is the grandmother's idea. The cottage is in the middle of a wild wood.

The baby's first spoken word after she commenced to say mamma and grandma was "suffrage," which caused great joy in the Blatch household.

A Tonic for the Stomach

The experience of sufferers from stomach trouble, who have tried the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, has been that their trouble has disappeared as soon as the blood was made pure. The numerous disorders of the stomach, as catarrh of the stomach, acid stomach, nervous dyspepsia, neuralgia of the stomach, gastritis, and lack of tone, have the same underlying cause—impure blood. In each case the stomach is weak. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People supply the stomach with the strength it needs by enriching and purifying the blood. Pure blood gives tone to the nerves, muscles, and glands of the stomach and makes it capable of properly performing the work of digestion.

"My case seemed to be a puzzle to the doctors," says Mr. P. L. Hayes, of No. 346 West Division street, Springfield, Mo., "and they could not restore my strength and health. My trouble began several years ago and was caused by a lack of exercise, irregular hours for meals and close confinement, as I was employed at that time as a mail clerk. I was subject to severe dizzy spells and headaches. I was terribly constipated and grew so much worse that my nervous system was seriously affected. I had no ambition to work and wanted to lie down all of the time. A friend, who had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, wanted me to try them. As I had been sick for a year I was willing to try anything that promised relief. It was only a short time when I could see that the pills were helping me. They gave me new vitality and purified my blood. I took several boxes of the pills and was restored to health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People have corrected serious disorders of the stomach, have revitalized the nervous system and restored to health sufferers from severe disorders of the blood and nerves. For rheumatism, indigestion, nervous headaches and many forms of weakness and debility Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are recommended even if ordinary remedies have been tried without relief.

A copy of our diet book, "What to Eat and How to Eat," will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes, $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

GET THE TRUTH.

City Comptroller Taussig's criticisms of the pending hospital bill demand an answer. Admitting that Mr. Taussig's enthusiastic pursuit of economy often leads him to the goal of penuriousness, his deliberate statement that this measure is dangerous and vicious still has force. He says that it has never been determined by proper administration that the funds at the command of the Hospital Board are not adequate.

Before going farther with the matter this question should be answered. As to the necessity of adding $220,000 a year, to be spent for wages and salaries, to the $750,000 now appropriated, we have only the word of the Hospital Commissioner and the Hospital Board, which is, of course, eager to get as much money as possible, like every other municipal department. If the hospital authorities are right Mr. Taussig is wrong. But three-quarters of a million dollars a year is a large sum for maintenance of these institutions. Its judicious expenditure could not leave the condition of the institutions as deplorable as Dr. Morfit and others have pictured it.

Is the condition not so deplorable after all? If it is there is ground for believing that Mr. Taussig is right. There should be some means of getting at the exact truth.

Roger Bresnahan's land attacks are giving New York a great deal more concern than the possibility of anybody's attack by sea.

THE FATHER OF THE TRUSTS.

John E. Parsons, a former counsel for the American Sugar Refining Co., told the Congressional Investigating Committee that he, and not the late S. C. T. Dodd, as commonly supposed, was the father of trusts. In support of his claim Mr. Parsons said that he conceived the idea of consolidating the sugar interests in 1887, which antedated Standard Oil's trustification.

It may be so. We don't know. We do know, however, that this is a distinction not to be lightly bandied about. Mr. Dodd is dead. He died as the fully accredited father of the trusts, and to transfer that title to another without the possibility of hearing him in his defense of a claim which no one came forward to dispute while he was alive is scarcely giving him a square deal. Does Mr. Parsons really want us to do that? We can not believe he does. Mr. Dodd always became himself as a good syndicate father, and we are not a people as much given to robbing the dead as somebody's progeny, either Mr. Dodd's or Mr. Parsons', is given to robbing the living.

We would have to hear some of the syndicates call Mr. Parsons father, dada, or something like that.

About this time Mr. Hines is probably willing to admit that Mr. Taft and Mr. Aldrich also put something over, and in respect to it he is the goat.

THE LEWIS RECEIVERSHIP.

In ordering a general receivership for the enterprises of E. G. Lewis, the Federal Court had recourse to the only means which even remotely promises to bring the tangled affairs of their promoter to a satisfactory conclusion. So complex and interwoven are the relations of the various concerns that even the accountants and lawyers who have been working ceaselessly for weeks to learn their condition, have made little progress. The Court could learn substantially nothing from them beyond the one salient fact of insolvency.

There are, however, disconcerting allegations of fraud and the fraud, as pictured, is of such colossal proportions that the unbiased mind hesitates and withholds judgment until something definite has been ascertained. "If the charges in the bill are true" was a condition interjected by the Court before each new recital of probabilities. These probabilities, with the condition stated, moved the Court to make mention of the South Sea Bubble, the French Panama scandals, and it might have included the more modern swindles of Whitaker Wright.

The interested creditors who assumed control of the properties, tangible, intangible and imaginary, under the scheme of reorganization, would doubtless be pleased to continue in uninterrupted control. There might be no objection to this if the question of fraud had not come in to succeed and belittle all others. This question takes the whole matter out of the realm of private activity and makes a receivership not only pertinent but necessary. It is the one means to the ascertainment of the truth to which general disillusionment can be only an incident.

SHALL MONOPOLY BE LEGALIZED?

It would be unfair to assume that Attorney-General Wickersham spoke for President Taft when in his Duluth speech he advocated the Gary-Carnegie-Depew-Bryan-Roosevelt plan of government control of all interstate corporations. But as a member of the Cabinet the Attorney-General's utterances have an official significance not attached to similar views of private citizens.

The picture Mr. Wickersham draws of the evils of monopoly is not too dark. We do not cavil at his statement of the monopolistic advantage of the laws permitting one corporation to own the stocks of others.

We do not deny his assertion that tariff privileges are the bulwark of predatory trusts, nor his affirmation that "in almost every one of the great staple industries prices have been for years fixed by agreement between the principal producers and not by the normal play of free competition."

But we protest against Mr. Wickersham's conclusion. His remedy for monopoly is more monopoly. He would minimize the evils of centralization by more centralization. He assumes that monopoly is here to stay and should be legalized and regulated instead of eliminated. His justification for the control of industrial and trade corporations is the control of railroads. He said:

> "We have been accustomed to the regulation of rates of transportation, but the suggestion that prices of commodities be regulated by Congress seems novel and radical. Yet the principle on which the regulation of transportation in rates is based is simply that when property is used in a manner to make it of public consequence and affects the community at large it becomes clothed with a public use and may be controlled by the public for the common good."

This is an amazing expression from the Attorney-General. There is a fundamental difference between the railroad and the ordinary business corporation. One is a quasi-public corporation, chartered for public service, with grants of special privileges and powers. It has the power of eminent domain. As a common carrier it has the responsibilities and obligations of a public servant. The private corporation has none of these special powers and privileges. Its only duty to the public is to comply with the law in its organization and operation. It has no franchise.

Mr. Wickersham failed to paint the picture of the consequences of government-controlled monopoly. If the Government fixes prices it must practically guarantee profits; it must govern all the conditions of business. It must crush competition and forbid freedom of trade. The control of the Government by monopolists and emperors of finance, which is now an occasional scandal, would become an established rule. The men who now determine capitalization and fix prices would continue to do both, backed by Government approval and power. In the partnership of the monopolists and the Government for the control of all business, we would have a bastard socialism, from the oppression of which state ownership would be a happy refuge.

We beg to remind Mr. Wickersham that the people are moving in the opposite direction. They demand the destruction of monopoly and the restoration of freedom of trade. They demand the wiping out of tariff iniquities. They demand the personal prosecution and punishment of monopolists. They anticipate the return of voluntary competition, with individual responsibility under the laws—the true conditions of democratic government.

If the work of the Department of Justice is a farce, if President Taft agrees with his Attorney-General that anti-trust laws are useless and that legalized monopoly is the ultimate good, the administration is indeed the instrument of "My Policies"; it is an unsuspected promoter of the Bryan-Roosevelt new nationalism and of the Gary scheme of protected monopoly, with a world-wide scope.

The league which is booming Mr. Folk for President has begun its library with a pocket dictionary. This is not, however, so bad a start as one may suppose. Mr. Folk contributed the word graft, which sticks about as well as anything anyone else has ever put in.

THE SAD CASE OF HINES.

Mr. Hines now appears before the public as a pathetic character. Heretofore he has been militant, assertive, a dominant factor in the creation of events. As he interpreted his position he was an agent of the Taft administration charged with the holy mission of putting Lorimer over. He put Lorimer over and he was proud of it. This achievement privileged him to boast in the market place and he boasted. Not every missionary gets such an assignment and not every missionary succeeds when he does.

We are not disposed to belittle this performance. As Hines seems to have viewed it himself, it was something of consequence. It rounded out a career which, beginning nowhere and with nothing, had ended with a great accomplishment. It beat climbing the ladder of success on rungs of his own manufacture. It beat being the biggest stick in a bundle of lath like the Lumber Trust. What was being a man of timber lots, stumpage, board feet, saw mills and lumber hookers to one who made senators? Mr. Hines was justified in being proud.

But it was the pride that goes before a fall. Something of the kind always happens when the shoemaker and his last are parted. Ex-Senator Aldrich came to prove that the case of Hines is a sad one. Now that Aldrich has spoken Hines is something less than a knothole. He had no mission. He was no agent. He was only a busybody treated with patience and politeness because etiquette demanded it. He was not asked to desist from making a senator because no one knew or thought he was in that business.

The only thing still plain is that Hines did make a senator by the same process he would make a two-by-four, that is, buying the raw material and sawing it into the desired shape. The glory and the holiness are gone. Aldrich left Hines nothing except the credit of having put Lorimer over. It is to weep.

Manufacturing will always have its perils, but open, unprotected vats of boiling or caustic liquid, level with the floor, into which a worker may slip, ought not to be included in those perils. The Factory Inspector should insist upon adequate protection for all the workers.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Sunday Baseball.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I notice "A Reader" asks: "In trying to improve St. Louis why not do away with Sunday baseball games?" It is people like this who are a barrier to the progress of St. Louis. If "A Reader" don't like Sunday baseball games and other amusements, there isn't anyone who is going to take him by the ear and force him from his front porch to see a baseball game.

I would not be surprised to read of someone suggesting that street cars should not be allowed to run in St. Louis on Sundays, and the same slow coach might also suggest that the publication of Sunday newspapers should be prohibited.

The lid in this old town is tight enough without interfering with the liberty of thousands of people who find that Sunday is the only day on which they have time for a little harmless amusement. Many Eastern cities are demanding Sunday baseball. A TRAVELING SALESMAN.

A Chicagoan's Opinion.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Will this million population hubbub never cease? Every time I drop down here from old "Chi" to spend a few weeks of dreamy ease in bucolic environment my rhapsodies are continually shattered by the report of another new "million population" scheme, and the explosion of the last one. This agitation has been going on now for 10 years and the city's population has grown an even hundred thousand, just exactly what it would have grown in the natural increase in birth rate of a city of its population. So the million population schemes and flubdub have been about as fruitful as Doc Cook's and Peary's trips to the Pole—frosts succeeded by "hot air."

St. Louis and "Chi" gave world's fairs. St. Louis' fair attracted several hundred thousand workers from all over the country. They came, worked, were paid, then departed, seeing the paucity of opportunity here. Chicago's fair also attracted several hundred thousand workers, who worked, were paid and stayed and incidentally advertised old "Chi" to all their friends as the American home of opportunity, and as a result it has become the mecca of ambitious workers of the world over and will eclipse New York as the biggest American city within 40 years' time, and take the world's honors for population from London within 75 years' time, or about the centennial anniversary of Chicago's great fire, the city's reincarnation.

Flubdub creates nothing. Energy and enterprise create opportunity. Opportunity attracts ambition. Ambition develops the nerve and self-confidence to "take a chance." Chicago's "take-a-chance" spirit has made her great, is now making her greater, and will undoubtedly make her greatest. St. Louis capitalists have the money, but are afraid to "take a chance." Chicago promoters borrow St. Louis capital at current rates of interest, "take a chance" with it on home enterprises invariably make money out of their ventures, incidentally creating new opportunities for wage workers, and then pay back their loans with a fine margin of profit in their own pockets, thinking as they do so: "Poor chumps they could have 'pulled' my idea in their own town, but are afraid to 'take a chance.'"

As they say in Boston, let St. Louis promoters "tread on their left extremity and become juxtapositioned to themselves."

EX-ST. LOUISAN.

A Lid-Lifting Argument.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Uncle Bolivar is no doubt a good man, but he does not figure right. St. Louis is slowly becoming a dead town. Some people claim it is dead already. Every Sunday about $200,000 is carried out of St. Louis, and why? Because the people of St. Louis cannot enjoy themselves as they want to. In former years we used to have between 17 and 23 excursion trains bringing the people of the surrounding country to St. Louis. Now it is different. The railroads are taking good care to send excursion trains to such places where there is no lid and the people go there and spend their money.

Who suffers the most? The brewers of St. Louis are indifferent, because they sell enough bottled beer and don't seem to care. We have now 700 lid-lifting clubs in St. Louis, and it is an open secret that everybody that wants a drink on Sunday and is known in St. Louis can get it, but an outsider cannot—hence the exodus.

Be seisible, Uncle Bolivar. Ilvite the people to come to St. Louis and spend their money here on Sunday and we will all do better. Walk through our streets on Sunday and keep your eyes open and what do you see—a dead town, as I said above. YOUR UNCLE SILAS.

A Plea for the Dogs of Maplewood.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Maplewood's new law compelling dog owners to muzzle their pets has proven fatal to at least a dozen of our innocent canine friends today. The law itself is a good one and if enforced throughout the hot season would undoubtedly prevent more cases of hydrophobia than killing them after the damage is done.

But why should the innocent dogs suffer for this? Why not place the guilt where it really belongs? Is it the dog's fault that he's not muzzled? No; make it a punishable offense like any other law and compel the owners to obey under penalty this much-deeded ordinance.

Maplewood. CLARENCE FARLEY.

Questions for Mr. Reber.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

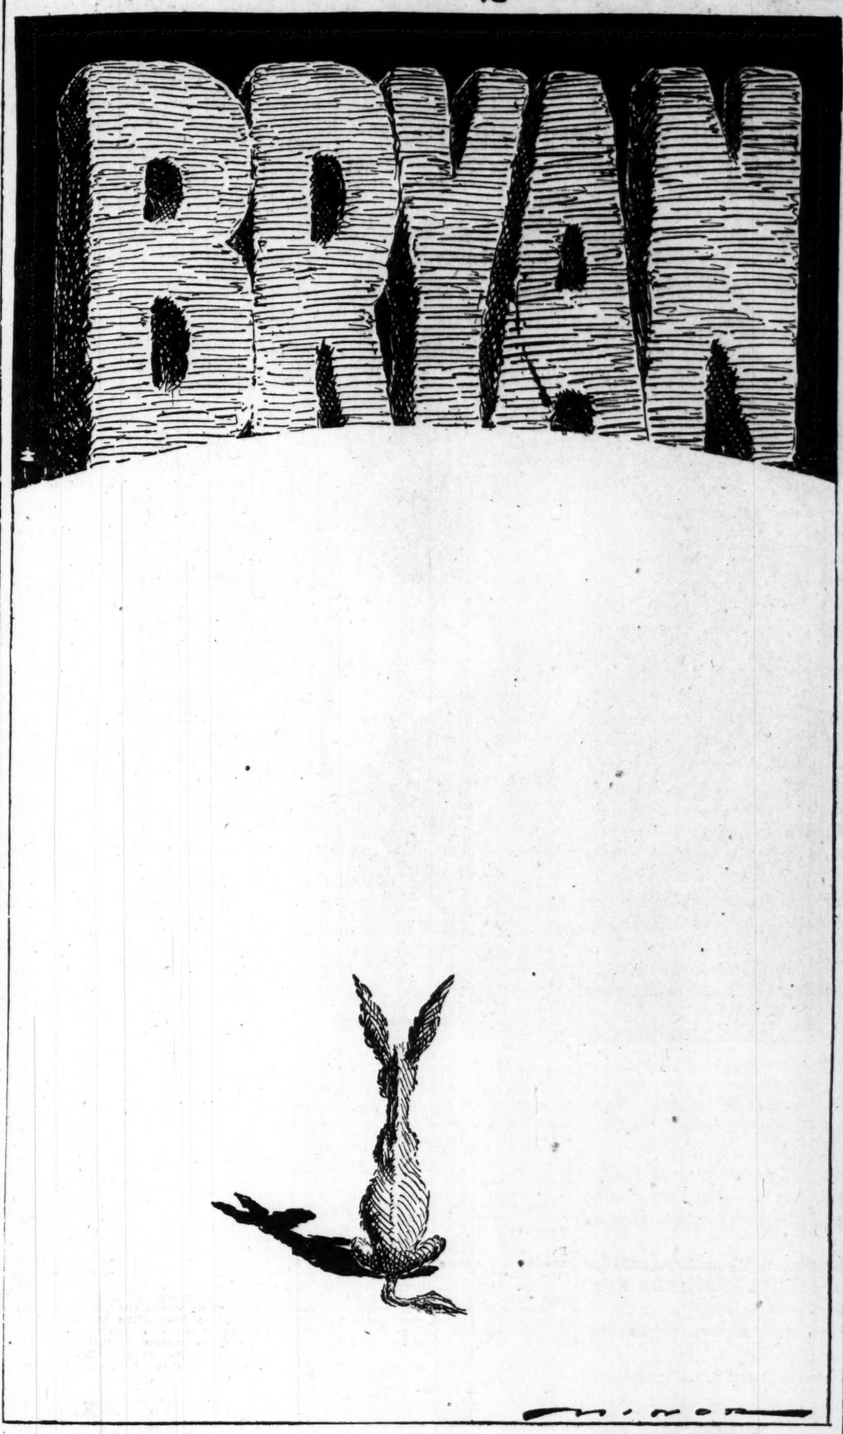
As a life-long resident of the City of St. Louis, interested in the "Free Bridge" and anxious to see it speedily constructed in the right way, I ask that you propound to Mr. Reber, President of the Board of Public Improvements, these three questions:

Do you know that the City of St. Louis as a Missouri corporation, has no general jurisdiction in the State of Illinois?

Do you know that the powers invested in the City of St. Louis, pursuant to the congressional bridge grant to construct and operate a bridge and approaches between St. Louis and the State of Illinois are special powers, and when exercised will be exhausted?

The foregoing being true, then why do you insist upon constructing the bridge approaches in the City of St. Louis, where we have general jurisdiction, before constructing and completing the railroad and wagon approaches in the State of Illinois? A. B. HOWARD.

THE ETERNAL QUESTION



ENGLAND'S FIRST AIRSHIP.

From the London Chronicle.

History repeated itself when a lords' debate was interrupted by an aeroplane. For when Lunardi made the first balloon ascent in England, on Sept. 15, 1784, a Cabinet Council was engaged on most important state deliberations. But King George said: "My lords, we shall have an opportunity of discussing this question at another time, but we may never again see poor Lunardi; so let us adjourn the council and observe the balloon."

MIGHTY SHAKY.

From the Buffalo Express.

Two mulatto women, employed as maids by a white woman, accompanied her in traveling on a Pullman car in Louisiana. They were arrested and fined $30 each for violation of the Jim Crow law. If these things are necessary to maintain white supremacy, it must rest on a very weak foundation.

Air Consumption.

From the Chicago News.

In one minute, in a state of rest, the average man takes into his lungs about 43.8 cubic inches of air. In walking he needs 97.6 cubic inches; in climbing, 140.3 cubic inches; in riding at a trot, 201.8 cubic inches, and in long distance running, 347.7 cubic inches.

Warning to Congressmen.

From the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Though many congressmen find it uncomfortable in Washington because of the heat, were they at home with their constituents they might find the temperature still more unpleasant.

Some Others.

From the New York Evening Post.

George V. Castro and Mr. Ty Cobb are some others whom Mr. Bryan has failed to approve of as Democratic candidates for President.

The Exception.

From the Louisville Courier Journal.

A careful survey of the press shows hot-weather "don'ts" include nearly everything except going to bed with cold feet.

Comprehensible.

From the Kansas City Star.

One can readily understand why two such public servants as Dr. Wiley and Mr. Wickersham do not dwell in harmany.

Veranda Chat.

From the Louisville Courier Journal.

"I hear they have a family skeleton."

"Yes, she was in the surf this morning."

All the Improvements.

From Life.

Come to New York. We have more different ways of getting your money than any other city in the United States.

JUST A MINUTE..

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Clark McAdams.

SWAT, BROTHERS.

Swat, brothers; swat with vim;
Swat with a fine resounding bim.
A whip flip swat for the common house,
And a quick flick movement for his spouse.
Swat brothers; swat with care;
Swat for the unpolluted air.

Swat, brothers; swat with skill;
Swat with a certainty to kill.
A long, strong swat for the bottle green,
And a twist wrist swat for the little screen,
Swat, brothers; swat for keeps;
Swat for the long, sweet morning sleeps.

Swat, brothers; swat for fair;
Swat for the glory waiting there.
A back, smack swat for the giant horse,
And an oath the preachers will indorse.
Swat, brothers; swat for true;
Swat with the fury of the Sioux.

Swat, brothers; swat today;
Swat while the dawn is pale and gray.
Swat when the noon is high and bright,
And swat till the gloaming bringeth night.
Swat, brothers; swat with eyes
Fixed on a flyless Paradise.

THE NEW CONGRESS.

"What do you think of the new theory of Congress?"

"What is it?"

"You know we've had one branch, and the trusts have had one."

"Certainly."

"Well, we're to have both branches."

"And the trusts none?"

"Exactly."

"Is that fair?"

"I don't think anyone makes that claim for it. It is only necessary for a while."

The center of population in the United States has moved into an Indiana ditch. However, this is nothing compared to some of the other ditches we have got ourselves in.

If the defendant's offense in "one of the most gigantic frauds that has ever been perpetrated in many a day" is anything like the court's grammar he is in a deuce of a fix.

THE ERA OF INVESTIGATION.

Mr. Taft rode in from the Chevy Chase golf course.

"Well, Mr. Hilles," he asked, "have you looked in on the various investigations?"

"Yes, sir."

"Lorimer?"

"Yes, sir."

"Steel?"

"Yes, sir."

"Sugar?"

"Yes, sir."

"Alaska?"

"Yes, sir."

"The Judge Day portrait?"

"Yes, sir."

"Wiley."

"Yes, sir."

"Wickersham?"

"Yes, sir."

"Mr. Hilles, what kind of day would you say it had been?"

"I should say that it had been a very good day for the La Follette presidential boom, sir."

"Pa, how many wars has the United States had?"

Let's see. Two with England, one with Mexico, one with Spain, one with the impure food and drug men, one with the railroads, one with the anti-conservationists and one with the trusts—eight."

It Looked Good to Him.

The teacher was demonstrating the powerful corrosive effects of intoxicating beverages upon a stomach's lining. The class looked on with horror when she poured some 95 per cent alcohol on an egg, thereby causing it to shrivel and coagulate. The demonstrator was pleased to observe the interest displayed by the janitor who had come in for the waste baskets. It was well known that he had need of such warning.

"Ma'am," he asked timidly, "wud you mind telling me where you buy yer licker?"—Success Magazine.

Felt So Small.

Boggs: Did you get in all right last night?

Wogg: O yes.

Boggs: Then the doors weren't locked, as you feared?

Wogg: Indeed they were, but my wife yelled at me as I was coming up the steps, so I crawled in through the letter slot.—Puck.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

Answers to Questions From Readers of the Post-Dispatch.

D. P. H.—Thanksgiving 1894, Nov. 29.

VERY ANXIOUS.—Try phoning Y. W. C. A. and Provident Association.

W. K.—James' Short Course in Psychology is Washington University text book.

FRED.—Five-cent nickel was authorized May 16, 1866; 75 per cent copper, 25 per cent nickel.

M. L. W.—Ask 115 N. 11th. (Questions should not be addressed to Editor or City Editor.)

PRINCE.—Moving to a northern state would not prevent the collection of a debt owed by the mover.

C. M.—Grand avenue bridge was completed in August, 1889; cars began running over it in April, 1895.

ANXIOUS.—Marriage licenses at Clayton on Saturday afternoon can be obtained by special arrangement only. Extra cost, $1.

SEVERAL CHUMPS.—On some Monday, if you can spare a moment to read the rules at the top of this column on that day, you may save yourselves time and postage.

WIFE.—To wish someone's death, if that one is fatally diseased and suffering greatly, is not a sin. Death is often the only relief from prolonged agonies. Such a wish would spring from love or regard for the sufferer.

W. P. E.—Your violin inscription should read Nicolaus Amati, Cremonensis. Hieronimi filius Antonii, nepos fecit anno 16—." It means that the violin was made by the Amati family of Cremona. It is probably a false label. See an expert.

WHITE FELT.—To clean: Cover with best magnesia and lay away for several weeks. Then gently beat until all magnesia is removed. Perseverance in the magnesia treatment works wonders upon white woolen fabrics and even upon muslin and crepe de chine.

MRS. B. C.—"Millenium" means 1000 years; especially the thousand years mentioned in the 20th chapter of Revelation, during which holiness is to be triumphant throughout the world. Some believe that, during this period, Christ will reign on earth with his saints. We have no reason to suppose it will come in 1915.

T.—For pin worms: Get pumpkin seeds at drug store, or from ripe pumpkins. These may be eaten or made into tea. If eaten, take the outer shell off and chew the kernel. If a tea is made—take 12 or 15 seeds (for a child), steep them until the good is soaked out and take them on an empty stomach—before breakfast is preferable. It may take a week or ten days.

A. B.—This statement was published last year: The greatest cataract in the world is a waterfall far surpassing Niagara and the Zambesi Falls in size, grandeur and volume. It is in an impenetrable forest, 1000 miles by boat from the nearest large city. It is on a river dividing Brazil from Argentina and is called the falls of Iguazu. Iguazu is 60 feet higher than the falls of Niagara, nearly three times greater in width, and its volume of water is 60 per cent larger. It is more than twice the width of the celebrated falls of the Zambesi.

LADY.—Sunshine cake: Whites of seven eggs, yolks of five, one and one-half cups granulated sugar, one cup flour, scant one-third teaspoon cream tartar, a pinch of salt added to the whites of eggs before whipping; flavor and sugar; separate the eggs, putting the whites in the mixing bowl; beat the yolks to a very stiff froth, whip whites to foam, add cream tartar and whip until very stiff; add sugar to the whites and beat in, then yolks and beat in, then flavor and beat in, then flour, stir lightly through. Put in moderate oven at once; will bake in 20 to 40 minutes.

P.-D. READER.—To soften water there is nothing better than oatmeal. Tie a small quantity of oatmeal in a piece of muslin; put this into the washing water for a minute, and then squeeze it dry and set in a plate on the washstand. The contents of the muslin will have to be changed every few days, as the effect of the oatmeal goes off. To soften water for laundry purposes when you have no rain water supply, it is a good plan to draw the water three or four days before it is needed for use, and to expose it to the air. This will render it quite soft, and will make soap either entirely unnecessary, or, at any rate, will make a very small quantity of it sufficient.

W. E. L.—Gowland's lotion is a popular remedy for all-the-year-round freckles and for the effacement of sunburn, tan, yellow spots and moth patches: Jordan almonds (blanched), one ounce; bitter almonds, three drams; distilled water, one pint; bichloride of mercury (coarse powder), 5 grains. With half the water make the almonds into an emulsion as directed for simple almond milk. Strain it and gradually add the mercury previously dissolved in the other half of the water. When finished, add enough water—some will have wasted—to make it measure exactly one pint. No metal utensil must touch the lotion in the course of preparation. Druggists can prepare it.

W. L. E.—To remove sunburn, mix buttermilk with enough talcum powder to make a paste, and spread it on the face when retiring. Another home-made remedy is to rub the skin thoroughly with the inner side of the rind of a freshly pared cucumber. And still another is baking soda—sovereign healer of all burns—either made into a solution for washing or applied in hot compresions. But the prime cure is hot water, as near scalding as can be borne, and plenty of it. Wash face repeatedly in this at the first opportunity. Then rub in a healing ointment, and finally, when you go to bed cover the face with cloths dipped in witch hazel. Keep the bottles near the bed, and when the cloths dry, wet them again, until you fall asleep.

READER.—Neck warts: Many may be tied about tightly with a silk thread and in a few days will literally rot off. Some persons have successfully used the sticky milk taken from the milk-weed plant, applying several times a day. Warts have also been removed by constant applications of wet salt. If the wart is stubborn and will not yield to this simple treatment, then the following pomade may be used, but first make sure that it is a wart, pure and simple, and not some other complicated growth: One ounce of soap cerate, one dram of powdered savin and one dram of powdered verdigris. Spread this on a piece of old kid or chamois, cut in a little round piece just the size of the wart, and keep it on over night. Repeat if necessary.

OLGALALLA.—Duties of surveyor's axman are to prepare, drive and mark stakes; to cut brush, fell and blaze trees, and keep the line clear for sighting and chaining as directed. He must cut points on stones, assist in setting up instruments, in chaining and running the rod. He must carry tools, keep them in good condition, and be generally useful. Duties and requirements of chainman: To run chain, read it and keep tally of chain lengths. He should know sources of error in his work and avoid them as much as possible; he directs axman in clearing lines for chaining, and stakeman in driving stakes, assists in carrying instruments and acts as rodman when required. Duties and requirements of a rodman: To "run" the rod, take readings and keep record of same as a check upon the leveler's notes; to select and fix turning points and bench marks, to act as chainman, set and mark stakes, etc.; to set up instruments; to take the place of the leveler in the latter's absence; to assist in carrying instruments, tools. In calculations, office work, etc. He should be familiar with the principle of leveling, and understand the sources of error in his work. He should know the rudiments of trigonometry, be able to use logarithms and assist in earthwork and other calculations.

Fairy Tales for the Fair

By Helen Rowland.

ONCE upon a time there was a bachelor who wanted to marry (but of course this is only a fairy tale).

In his search for an ideal wife he wisely went to a summer resort, which is a place where a girl will resort to ANYTHING (from a babe in arms to a Hottentot) for attention, and where REAL men are as scarce as sea serpents and mermaids.

This afforded him a wide selection and plenty of time to look for a bargain.

The first girl he met was a BEAUTY, and to judge from her bathing suit she didn't care who knew it.

But when he had spent a whole broiling summer afternoon in her exclusive society, which is the acid test of love, he decided that he didn't care to go through life posing as a picture frame, and that a good photograph of her tacked up on his wall would be about as satisfactory and companionable and a lot less expensive and capricious.

After all, a wife, like a wallpaper, is only a background, and the fancy patterns do get so tiresome!

So he turned his attention to a CLEVER girl whose wit bade fair to be more amusing and less monotonous.

At first the change was refreshing, but by the evening of the second day he discovered that he had almost lost the power of speech.

Every time he opened his mouth the WIT took the words out of it.

And the way she capped his favorite joke or his finest bon-mot with a better one struck him dumb—but not with admiration.

Besides, it hurt his vanity, after he had been doing conversational gymnastics and jumping mental hurdles for two hours, to find himself always left at the post.

The fourth day, from sheer ennui, he sought out a stupid, PLAIN little thing who had been sitting alone at the far end of the piazza.

Now the PLAIN little thing had but one accomplishment in all the world. She could "look pleasant"—and she "aimed to please."

She couldn't see the point of a joke until it was explained to her with a diagram, but she usually managed to laugh in the right place.

She was so pleased with the young bachelor's attentions that she acted as grateful for a compliment or a box of bonbons as a poodle for a pat on the head.

When he was merry she appeared convulsed with mirth. When he was cynical or sarcastic or grouchy she never answered back because she couldn't think of anything to say.

In short, she went on the principle of "letting George do it all."

This was such a relief to the bachelor, who had been chasing butterflies and bees, that in less than three weeks he was engaged to her.

"For," he said rapturously as he slipped the solitaire onto her finger, "at last I have found a woman who UNDERSTANDS ME!"

But she didn't. Which was lucky for them both.

The INNER SHRINE

Third in the Post-Dispatch series of summer novels, following "The Social Bucaneer" and "The O'Flynn," this is an anonymous novel, dealing with the matrimonial problem, and has created a furore on two continents. It will be followed by "The Shogun's Daughter."

CHAPTER XXII.

"MADEMOISELLE has sent for me?" Blenville kissed the hand that Miss Grimston, without rising from her comfortable chair before the fire, lifted toward him. The hand screen with which she shielded her face protected her not only from the blaze, but from his scrutiny. In the same way, the winter gloaming, with its uncertain light, nerved her against her fear of self-betrayal, giving her that assurance of being mistress of herself which she lacked when he was near.

"I wondered a little why you should have been at Lakefield."

"I'm afraid you'll think it was for a very foolish reason," he laughed, "but I'll tell you, if you want to know. I went because I thought you were there."

"I? At 3 o'clock in the morning?"

"It was like this," he went on. "You'll pardon me if I say anything to give you offense, but you'll understand the reason why. On the day when we all lunched together at the Restaurant Blitz—you, madame your aunt, your friend Monsieur Reggie Bradford and I—I was a little jealous of some understanding between you two, in which I was not included. You spoke together in whispers, and exchanged glances in such a way that all my fears were aroused. Afterward you went away with him. That evening, at the Stuyvesant Club, I heard a strange rumor. It was whispered from one to another until it reached me. Your friend Monsieur Bradford is not a silent person, and what he knows is sure to become common property. The rumor—which I grant you was an absurd one—was to the effect that he had persuaded you to run away and marry him; and that you had actually been seen on the way to Lakefield in his car."

"I was in his car. That's quite true."

"Ah? Then there was some foundation for the report. Madame your aunt will have told you how I hurried here, about 11 o'clock that night. You had disappeared, leaving nothing behind but an enigmatic note saying you would explain your absence in the morning. What was I to think, mademoiselle? I was afraid to think. I didn't stop to think. I determined to follow you. It was too late for any train, so I took an auto. I reached the Bay Tree Inn—and saw what I saw. Voila!"

"But haven't you wondered where I was that night you followed me to Lakefield?"

"If I have, I shouldn't presume to inquire."

"It's a secret; but I should like to tell you. I know you'll guard it sacredly, because it concerns—a woman's honor."

"If mademoiselle is pleased to be satirical—"

"No. There's no reason why I should be satirical. If, in spite of everything, my confidence in you wasn't absolute, I shouldn't risk a name I hold so dear as that of Dorothea Pruyn."

"Tiens!" he exclaimed, under his breath.

"Miss Pruyn is a charming girl, but she's been very foolish. What she did was not quite so bad in American eyes as it would be in French ones, but it was certainly very willful. If you heard rumors of an elopement, it was hers."

"Mon dieu! With the big Monsieur Reggie?"

"Not quite. I needn't tell you the young man's name; it will be enough to say that the big Monsieur Reggie, as you call him, was in his confidence. It was Reggie who undertook to convey Dorothea to Lakefield, where she was to meet the bridegroom-elect and marry him."

"And then?"

"Then Reggie told me. It was silly of anyone to intrust him with a mission of the kind, for he couldn't possibly keep it to himself. He told me while we were lunching at the Blitz. That's what he was whispering. That's why I went away with him after lunch and left you with my aunt. I saw you were annoyed, but I couldn't help it."

"You wanted to dissuade him?"

"I tried; but I saw it was too late for that. Reggie wouldn't desert his friend at the last minute. The only concession I could wring from him was that he should let me take his place in the motor."

"You?"

"I drive at least as well as Mr. Bradford. I made him see that in case of accident it would make all the difference in the world to Miss Pruyn's future life to be with a woman, rather than a man."

"Did you make her see it, too?"

"I didn't try. The arrangements these wise young people had made rendered the substitution easy. Dorothea had apparently considered it part of the romance not to know with whom she was going, or where she was being taken. At the time and place appointed she found an automobile, driven by a person in a big fur coat, a cap and goggles. It was agreed that she should enter and ask no questions."

"And did she?"

"She fulfilled her engagement to the letter. As soon as she was seated I drove away; and for six hours I didn't hear a sound from her."

"Six hours? Did it take you all that time to reach Lakefield?"

"I didn't go to Lakefield. I took her to Philadelphia. My one object was to keep her from meeting the young man that night; but perhaps that's where I made my mistake."

"That was a very brave act, mademoiselle." Blenville's eyes glistened and his face lighted up with an ardor that was not dampened by the casual, almost listless, air with which she told her story.

"It might have been better if I had let the whole thing alone."

"Why so?"

"You can rarely interfere in other people's affairs without doing more harm than good. If I had let them go their own way, Diane Eveleth wouldn't have been put in a false position."

In the quiet, unaccentuated manner in which she had given her own share in the action she gave Diane's.

"I don't blame you for thinking what you did—not in the least. I don't even blame you for telling it, since it would seem to bear out—what you said before. I should only blame you"—

"Are you going to begin on that again?" he asked, in a tone of disappointment.

"I'm not beginning again, because I've never ceased. If I say anything new on the subject, it is this—that it's time the final word was spoken."

"I agree with you there; it is time for that word; but you must speak it."

There was a ring of energy in his voice which caused her to turn from her contemplation of the fire and look at him. When she did he had taken on a new air of resolution.

"I think it's time we came to a definite understanding," he went on, "and that you should see how the matter looks from my point of view. You speak of doing right, mademoiselle, as if it were an easy thing. You don't realize that, for me, it would have to be the last act but one in life."

In spite of the shock, she ignored his implied confession, going on to speak in the tone of ordinary conversation.

"The last act but one? I don't understand you."

"Really? I'm surprised at that. You're so good a sportsman that I should think you'd see that if I do what you ask there will be only one more thing left for me."

For a few minutes she looked at him silently, with fixed gaze, taking in the full measure of his meaning.

"And you've decided in your own favor?"

"So far. I've been actuated by the instinct of self-preservation."

"And are you going to persist in it?"

"That's for you to tell me. But I should like to remind you first of this, that if I don't—I go."

"And what if—if I went with you?"

"You couldn't. The journey would be too long."

"But you needn't go so far if I'm there."

"I couldn't take you with me. You must understand that. I once knew an American girl who married a man who cheated at cards, and buried herself alive with him. I wouldn't let a woman do that for me."

"But if she wanted to?"

"In that case she ought to be protected from herself. There's no use in ruining two lives where one will do."

"There's such a thing as losing your life to find it."

"If so, it's something for me to do—alone."

"Isn't it a kind of moral cowardice to say that?"

"I don't think so. To me it seems only looking things squarely in the face. I'm not the sort of man for whom there's any possibility of beginning life anew. A man like me can't live things down."

"Surely you exaggerate. You could do it quietly. No one need know—outside Derek Pruyn and two or three more of us."

"I don't do things in that way," he said, with an odd return of his old-time pride. "If I put the woman right, it shall be in the eyes of the world. I don't ask to have things made easy for me."

Though he was looking straight at her, he was too deeply engrossed in his own thoughts to see how proudly her head went up, or to note the flash of splendid light in which her glance enveloped him.

"I was all ready to die," he pursued, in the same meditative tone, "that morning in the Pre Catalan. George Eveleth could have had my life for the asking. I'd never known him to miss his mark, and he wouldn't have missed me—if he hadn't had another destination for his bullet. I've regretted it more than once. I've had pretty nearly all that life could give me—and I've made a mess of it."

"You haven't had—love," she ventured.

"Love?" he echoed, with a short laugh. "I've had every kind of love but one; and that I'm not worthy of."

"We get a good many things we're not worthy of; but they help us just the same."

"This wouldn't help me," he returned, speaking very slowly. "I shouldn't know what to do with it. It would be as useless to me in my new conditions as a chaplet of pearls to a slave in the galleys. So, what would you do?"

"I'd do right at any cost."

She scarcely knew that the words were spoken, until she found the echo of her speech still in her mental hearing and recognized its import. It was an instant in which the love of daring, that was so instinctive in her nature, blew, as it were, a trumpet-challenge to the same passion in his own, while they sat staring at each other, wide-eyed and speechless, in the dancing firelight.

CHAPTER XXIII.

ON the following day the Marquis de Bienville found the execution of any intentions he might have had toward Derek Pruyn postponed by the circumstance that Miss Regina Van Tromp was dead.

The days before the funeral became a period of suspended action, in which life refrained from too marked a manifestation of its energies, out of reverence for death. The lull lasted, in fact, till James Van Tromp arrived from Paris; and it was broken then only by the banker's desire "to get things settled" with all possible speed, so that he might return to the Rue Auber. The elder Mrs. Eveleth had waited for the arrival of the man whom she looked upon now as her confidential adviser, to make the announcement that, since Miss Lucilla would no longer need her, she meant to have a home of her own. The economies she had been able to practice during the last two years, together with a legacy from Miss Van Tromp, would, when added to "her own income," provide her with modest comfort for the rest of her days. There was something triumphant in the way in which she proclaimed her independence of the daughter-in-law who had been the author of so many of her woes. It was the old banker himself who brought this intelligence to Diane.

During the fortnight he had been in New York he had formed an almost daily habit of dropping in on her. She was the more surprised at his doing so from the fact that her detachment from the rest of the circle of which she had formed a part was now complete.

"So the old lady is set up for life on your money," he observed.

"In any case I'm glad she has it."

"Tut! tut! Don't tell me! Can't I see with my own eyes? No woman could lose her good looks as you've done and not know she's made a mistake. How old are you now?"

"I'm twenty-seven."

"Dear me! dear me! You look forty."

"I feel eighty."

"Yes; I dare say you do. Anyone who's got into so many scrapes as you have must feel the burden of time. I don't think I ever saw a young woman make such poor use of her opportunities. Why didn't you marry Derek Pruyn?"

"What makes you think I ever had the chance?"

"Because I gave it to you myself."

"You, Mr. Van Tromp?"

"Yes; me. I did all that wire-pulling when you first came to New York; and I did it just so that you might catch him."

"Oh?"

"I did," he declared, proudly. "And if you had been the woman I took you for, you could have had him."

"It was certainly good of you to give me the opportunity; and if I had only known"—

"You would have let it slip through your fingers just the same. You're one of the young women who will always stand in your own light. I dare say, now, that if I told you I was willing to marry you myself, you wouldn't profit by the occasion."

Unable to answer him there, she held her peace, though it was a relief that, before he had time to speak again, a page boy knocked at the door and entered with a card. Diane took it hastily and read the name.

"Tell the gentleman I can't see him," she said, with a visible effort to speak steadily.

"Wait!" the banker ordered, as the boy was about to turn. "Who is it?" Without ceremony he drew the card from Diane's hand and looked at it. "Heu!" he cried. "It's Blenville, is it? Of course you'll see him; of course you will; of course! Here, boy, I'll go with you."

Returning to Gramercy Park after this interview, the banker pottered about his apartment until, on hearing the doorbell ring, he looked out of the window and recognized Derek Pruyn's chauffeur. On the stairs, as he went down, he heard Miss Lucilla's voice in the hall.

"Oh, come in, Derek. Marion isn't here yet, but she won't be long. I asked you to come punctually because I gathered from her note that she wanted to see you very particularly, and without Mrs. Bayford's knowledge. She has evidently something on her mind that she wants to tell you."

"Hello, dears!" the old man interrupted suddenly, as, leaning heavily on the baluster, he descended the stairs. "I've got good news for you."

"Good news, Uncle James?" Miss Lucilla said, reproachfully. With her long, grave face, and in her heavy crape, she looked as though she found good news decidedly out of place.

"The very best," the banker declared, reaching the hall and taking his nephew and niece each by an arm. "Come into the library and I'll tell you. There!" he went on, pushing Miss Lucilla into an arm chair. "Sit down, Derek, and make yourself comfortable. Now, listen, both of you. Perhaps you're going to have a new aunt."

"Oh, Uncle James!" Miss Lucilla cried, in the voice of a person about to faint.

"The young woman," the banker went on to explain, "is of French extraction, but Irish on the mother's side."

Derek grasped the arms of his chair and half rose, making an inarticulate sound.

"'Sh! 'Sh!" the old man went on, lifting a warning finger. "She'd had reverses of fortune; but that wasn't the reason why she came to me. Though her husband had just died, leaving nothing, she had her own dot, on the income of which she could have lived. But that didn't suit her. Her husband had left a mother, who had neither dot nor anything else in the world. At the age of 60 the old woman was a pauper. My little lady came to see me in order to transfer all her own money secretly to her mother-in-law, and face the world herself with empty hands."

Derek sprang up and strode across the room.

"Do you mean to tell me," he demanded, turning abruptly, "that she made over all her money to Mrs. Eveleth—a woman who has deserted her, like the rest of us?"

"That's what she did; but there's this to be said for the old lady, that she doesn't know it."

With tolerable accuracy he gave the details of his first interview with Diane, three years previous.

"And so I've decided to give her a home—that is," he added, significantly, "if no one else will."

"Do you mean that for me?" Derek asked in a tone too low for Lucilla to hear it.

"Oh no—not particularly. I mean it for—anyone."

"Because," Derek went on, "as for me—I'm not worthy to have her under my roof."

The banker made no comment, sitting in a hunched attitude and humming to himself in a cracked voice while Derek stared down at him.

They were still in this position when Marion Grimston was shown in.

Love and Courtesy

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Betty Vincent.

A MAN meets a girl in an office, or in her home or at some social function. They are both more or less their real selves. A few short meetings will give each a certain line on the other's character.

A man meets a girl at a summer resort, during vacation. Each is out on the year's "lark," each has holiday clothes, holiday manners and—far more leisure than is wholly safe for people who work 50 weeks out of the 52. Cupid (like Satan in the old poem) finds mischief for the idle. A couple meet on vacation. In town neither might look at the other a second time. But in the country, under the moonlight in a forest glade with a dead tree across its center, or in a canoe on the lake—there is a glamour that is not of real life. It is unreal as moonshine, fickle as the lake fogs. It raises idiocy "to the Nth power."

As long as both understand this, no great harm is done. But when either the man or the girl takes at its face value the infatuation bred of such idle hours there is apt to be heartache for someone.

Back come the vacationists to town. Each sees the other in the humdrum, everyday, subway-and-elevated, crowded street life. Each seems to the other different. The glamour fades, as fade it must. If you must play the vacation love game play it with open eyes and make sure that your opponent is doing the same. Fair play is as possible in love as in tennis. Heartaches are pretty in poetry. In real life they are cruel to have and far crueler to give.

A Kissless Swain.

A. L. writes:

"There are several men I know who boast of the number of girls who let them kiss them. When I am asked if the girls of my acquaintance let me kiss them I have to say no. I tried one girl on the way home from a dance, but she slapped my face. I am discouraged. What do you advise?"

Bear a few facts in mind for your comfort: The man who boasts of the girls he has kissed is beneath contempt. No self-respecting girl should allow any man, unless she is engaged to marry him, to kiss her. The sort of girl who will allow any and every man to kiss her is not worth kissing. The sort of man for whom girls care is not usually the sort of man who brags of his conquests.

Her Mother's Wisdom.

WHITE LAKE writes:

"My mother insists on chaperoning me on my vacation. She also says I cannot remain out rowing or walking with any man in the evening later than 10 o'clock. I think she is old-fashioned and silly, but I will abide by your advice."

Your mother is wise, and you are lucky to have her counsel to guide you. If more mothers were as "old-fashioned and silly" as she, there would be fewer unhappy love affairs.

"Loves Both."

G. B. writes: "There are two men in love with me. I love them both. At least when I am alone with either I think that is the man I love. This puzzles me. How can I decide which I love the better of the two?"

If you can't make up your mind which of the two men you are in love with, it is an absolutely sure sign you really love neither. When you meet the right man there will be no doubt in your heart.

Cut Out by His Chum.

A MAN who signs his letter "R. S." writes me:

"I was engaged to a girl. We loved each other dearly. I introduced my chum to her. In a week she broke her engagement to me. In three days more she was engaged to him. I am uncertain whether to try to win her back or to try to forget her. What shall I do?"

Forget her. If you were not once able to hold her love, you could not do it again, even if (which is not likely) you could win her back. Let her go, and be grateful she fell in love with another man before she married you instead of after the wedding. Do not let this experience make you cynical or embitter you toward other women. There are far more true, loyal girls than false. And next time you will probably meet the former sort. Because one girl was untrue to you it is no sign the next one will be.

An "Anonymous" Ring.

A. M. writes: "I am very much in love with a young man and I think he cares for me. A few weeks ago a diamond ring was left at our house addressed to me, but with no name of the sender. Yet I know the young man I love sent it. Will it be proper for me to thank him and consider myself engaged?

You may ask the young man if he sent you the ring, if you really believe that is the case; but you cannot consider yourself engaged until the young man definitely asks you to marry him.

One on Father.

HERBERT, aged 4½, had annoyed his father until that individual finally lost patience. Thinking to get rid of him for a few minutes by a simple ruse, he said:

"Hurry, son, to the window and see the big parade!"

The little lad ran to the window and climbed up on a chair, while the father smiled at the success of his little lie.

The smile was still on his face when a tug at his coat-tail and a "Hurry, papa, quick!" caused him to start toward the window.

"What is the matter?" he asked.

"Come and see the elephant in the parade," said the boy.—Metropolitan Magazine.

Counterfeits.

Read what one of the GREATEST NEWSPAPERS IN AMERICA has to say on this subject:

"The manufacturers of Castoria have been compelled to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars to familiarize the public with the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. This has been necessitated by reason of pirates counterfeiting the Castoria trademark. This counterfeiting is a crime not only against the proprietors of Castoria, but against the growing generation. All persons should be careful to see that Castoria bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, if they would guard the health of their children. Parents, and mothers in particular, ought to carefully examine the Castoria advertisements which have been appearing in this paper, and to remember that the wrapper of every bottle of genuine Castoria bears the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, under whose supervision it has been manufactured continuously for over thirty years.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Owl Drug Co., of San Francisco, Cal., says: "We have always been a believer in the 'original man protection' and have been particular never to sell anything but the genuine and original Castoria (Fletcher's). NAVAL WAR GAME SHOWS THE VALUE OF THE SUBMARINE

Result of Sham Battles at Long Island Will Be Recommendation for More of Them.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—One certain result of the naval war game in progress off the eastern entrance of Long Island Sound will be the recommendation to Congress for a considerable increase of the number of submarine boats.

Even the commander of the attacking fleet, Admiral Osterhaus, had to admit in his official report to the Navy Department that the submarines attached to the defensive fleet had succeeded in approaching his big battleships without detection until they suddenly arose at the short distance of 500 yards from the anchorage.

Equipped with torpedoes that easily travel five times that distance at great speed, it would have been an easy matter for the submarine commanders to have sent some of the big ships clear out of the water if the war had been an actuality.

The obvious lesson is that in war time a hostile fleet will never dare anchor off the coast if there is reason to suspect the presence within 25 miles of any of the under water craft, or if they do so, they must have recourse to the British device of strong chain torpedo nets hung far out from the hull's bottom.

$100 REWARD IS OFFERED FOR THE CAPTURE OF HEIN

Wife, Whose Nine $1000 Bonds Are Missing, Aided in Search for Him by Police.

Mrs. Lydia F. Hein has enlisted the aid of the police to find her husband, William F. Hein, who disappeared from their home, 1512 Cass avenue, June 30. Circulars containing a picture and description of Hein and offering a reward of $100 for his capture have been sent out by Police Chief Young.

After Hein's disappearance Mrs. Hein discovered that nine $1000 bonds were missing from the safe deposit vaults in which she had kept them.

A warrant for Hein's arrest for wife abandonment has been issued and he is wanted on two civil charges of taking his wife's bonds.

The detailed description of Hein, as contained in the police circular, reads:

"William F. Hein usually dresses flashy and very neat; usually dresses in light clothes, such as gray or ice cream color; usually no jewelry; is quick and rapid in speech; speaks English well, but with a noticeable German accent; speaks both English and German; his usual occupation is that of a bookkeeper, etc.; he was in restaurant business in the City of St. Louis for a period of three months; fled from the City of St. Louis about June 30, 1911, leaving his wife and abandoning and stealing from her $3000 worth of bonds."

Afacsimile of Hein's handwriting is also shown in the circular.

NO CHOLERA FOUND ON ITALIAN SHIP

Condition of Passengers of Principe di Piemont Encourage Health Officers.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The National and State Physicians and Bacteriologists, who are at the harbor hospitals guarding the country from a threatened invasion of cholera, were encouraged today by the fact that no cases of the disease have been found thus far among the latest arrivals from Italy.

Twenty-four hours have elapsed since the steamer Principe di Piemont from Genoa and Naples entered quarantine and the official report today said no further developments of the disease had appeared.

In preparation for two more ships soon to arrive from the Mediterranean, Health Officer Doty is increasing his force of experts, for under the latest Government order every arrival from Italy must undergo bacteriological examination.

Dr. Doty today denied charges made at the State investigation of his administration that he had failed to report cases of cholera when they first appeared here.

At Swinburne Island, where the cholera pationets are, no further deaths have been reported since that of Francesca Arcoorida yesterday afternoon.

She was an italian immigrant and a steerage passenger on the steamer Moltke.

WICKERSHAM SURE COURT RULE WILL DISSOLVE TRUSTS

Attorney-General, in Michigan Speech, Declares Order Will Be Enforced.

DEFENDS RULE OF REASON

Credits Taft With Honest Determination Justly to Enforce the Law.

By Associated Press.

HANCOCK, Mich., July 21.—Big combinations like the Standard Oil Co. and the Tobacco Trust are going to be "split up into a number of separate and distinct parts without connection of monopoly power."

This was the prediction made in an address here today by Attorney-General Wickersham answering "people who are saying the decisions of the Supreme Court don't really mean anything."

"Don't believe any such talk," the Attorney-General said to the crowd assembled here for Hancock's "home-coming celebration." Criticisms seeking to minimize the value of the Supreme Court decisions came largely, he added, from those who would like to embarrass the administration with the sort of "general assault on all business which would compel every business man to turn to the other party for relief."

Has Praise for Taft.

Wickersham referred to the guiding hand of President Taft in the policy of the Department of Justice, concluding his speech with the remark that "no matter who should be at the head of that department, so long as William H. Taft is President, no other policy could obtain."

"When the Supreme Court said we must read this statute as reasonable men," he continued, "and give it an interpretation that will not strangle all trade, but which will prevent any undue restraint, prohibit all contracts and combinations that are intended to interfere with the natural course of trade, or which will have that necessary effect—then the Court gave us a means of preventing those evils which led to the enactment of the law. And this is especially so in view of the fact that the Court gave full force to the prohibition of monopolies, and by its decrees has ordered the breaking up of the two largest and most successful monopolies or trusts which ever appeared in this country.

"But some people are saying that these decisions don't really mean anything; that the big trusts will simply reorganize under other forms and go on just as before. Take my assurance for it that those big combinations are going to be split into a number of separate and distinct parts, no one of which shall have any connection or control over any other and no one of which shall have so large a percentage of the business as to be anything like a monopoly.

Defends Big Fees.

"While there has been recently some criticism of some of the fees paid in these prosecutions, it has largely come from lawyers who have not had any experience with large, complicated cases, or from political opponents and it has utterly ignored the splendid achievements of the lawyers who received what are referred to as large fees, but which are really small fees for the work they did, and it also ignores the fact that private clients would have paid their lawyers many times as much had they been equally successful.

"In enforcing the statutes that affect business conditions, several classes of people are sure to be offended. There are those whose pecuniary interests are adversely affected by the prosecution, and those who consider the policy of the law mistaken and are unwilling to concede the duty of the law officers of the Government to enforce its law, even though such enforcement in their opinion will lead to business depression or unrest. Secondly, there are those who wish not only radical results, but results which would produce panic or disaster, either, first because they have nothing themselves to lose, and, secondly, those who because of partisan hostility would like to see the administration embarrassed by the sort of general assault upon all business which would compel every business man to turn to the other party for relief. The criticisms which seek to minimize the value of the recent Supreme Court decisions in the trust cases come largely from this latter class.

Sincere Effort for Justice.

"But under the wise control and guidance of President Taft, no other course than that which the Department of Justice has followed during the past two years could have been pursued. Under him the law has been enforced to the best of the abilities of those to whom he has intrusted its enforcement, with the sincere effort to make that enforcement thorough, dispassionate and without undue discrimination."

CHANCE BIG PEACE TREATY WILL BE SIGNED AT BEVERLY

Possible Agreement of Powers May Be Delayed Until Taft Goes to Summer Home.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—For the second time within a decade New England may claim the birthplace of one of the great treaties that make world history, for it may be that the general arbitration treaty will be known as the treaty of Beverly, just as the peace agreement concluded by Russia and Japan was known as the treaty of Portsmouth.

It was intended that the arbitration convention should be signed in Washington and, indeed, hope has not yet been abandoned that that may be the case. But events are shaping so that it would not be surprising if the delays arising in the closing days of the negotiations should make it impossible to conclude them before President Taft leaves for his summer home in Massachusetts.

Although the British Government has already practically given its assent to the treaty, it is the wish of the President and Secretary Knox that this important agreement be given a truly international character, which can be had only by the adherence of more than two of the great powers.

This desire has been made known to the French Government and Ambassador Jusserand, now in Paris, is laboring to induce his foreign office to give its assent to the adherence of France. If this is assured in the immediate future, it is entirely possible that the ceremony of signing the treaty will be deferred long enough to permit Jusserand to hasten to America to place his name on it.

The President has shown so much interest in the subject that he doubtless would be desirous of witnessing the conclusion of the treaty.

SENATE REJECTS ST. LAWRENCE RIDER

Townsend's Amendment Providing for Deepening River Lost on Reciprocity Vote.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Senator Townsend's amendment to the reciprocity bill providing for international improvement of the St. Lawrence River was defeated in the Senate today by a large vote.

Townsend spoke in favor of his amendment, which would have authorized the President to enter into an agreement with Canada for the improvement and deepening of the river from the Great Lakes to the ocean. He said it would greatly develop commerce, reduce freight rates and work toward closer commercial relations with Canada.

Senator Stone opposed putting waterway legislation upon the reciprocity bill. He said it should come up in Congress as a separate proposition, and that as such it probably would be favorably acted upon.

FORMER ST. LOUIS WOMAN IS KILLED

Mrs. Kate Porter Meets Her Death by an Auto in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Mrs. Kate Porter was killed by an automobile at Sheridan and Leland avenues last night. She was crossing the street when she was hit by a car owned and driven by Charles Chapman, a mason contractor.

Mrs. Porter was employed as a maid by W. H. Hobbs of 936 Castlewood terrace. Hobbs identified the body Friday, after it had been in the morgue since last night. Mrs. Porter was 52 years old. She was divorced 25 years ago from Selwyn C. Edgar of St. Louis. Edgar is president of the Edgar Zinc Co. and lives at 4278 Lindell boulevard, St. Louis. Mrs. Porter was his first wife. She was the mother of Selwyn C. Edgar Jr.

UNION PACIFIC A STRONG SPOT IN WALL STREET

Price Hovers Around High Level of the Year; Steel Also Steady.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The market closed firm. Heavy buying in Union Pacific carried the price to the high on the movement for the year and Steel was lifted to $80. The Hill stocks made further advances and last prices were near the best of the day.

Stocks reflected an increased buying demand in the early speculation today, and the leading issues rose sharply after a steady opening. Speculation was fairly broad at the advance and the tone confident.

The London market was irregular before the local opening, with most issues showing small gains. The steel stocks were steady and coppers firm.

The subway tangle still receives the attention of Wall street, and one would think from the talk in brokers' offices that the future prosperity of the whole country was contingent on the ratification of the plans. The entire market is likely to break away from this bugaboo at any time, as it is largely a local affair.

The crop outlook shows steady improvement and the talk of "black rust" damage to spring wheat is treated largely as a joke. The corn belt had an additional wetting down yesterday and there has been decided improvement in the crop in the past few days.

Cotton also is in an ideal position, and unforseen happens, a record crop is among the possibilities.

The Hill stocks were strong features of the early market on the belief that the reciprocity bill will be signed by President Taft by Saturday.

By a vote of 15 to 1 the Board of Estimate this morning confirmed the vote of yesterday and awarded all subway contracts to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Co. The change in lineup in the Board of Estimate on subway proposition was due to the fact that Francis P. Bent, vice-president of the Board of Aldermen, in the absence of Mayor Gaynor, sat as a member of the board and cast his three votes in favor of the Brooklyn company. Mr. Bent, in explanation of his position, said that he would prefer that subways be built and operated by the city, but that he did not wish any further delay, and accordingly was prepared to vote for the Brooklyn Rapid Transit in absence of a better proposition.

The market held steady during the noon hour, but was without special feature, trading becoming extremely dull.

A few issues lost ground in the afternoon, but the market as a whole held firm. Canadian Pacific sold at more than a point below its high price of the day.

The demand for structural steel over the last few days has been more general and of larger volume than in any similar period for several months. Structural steel orders from railroads and builders aggregate a total of more than 35,000 tons, the largest being 10,000 for the Artibise to be used in construction of a bridge over the Missouri River.

Several large orders have been placed for buildings in various parts of the country. Structural steel orders ranging from 4000 to 3000 tons from the railroads are more numerous than they have been since the first of the year.

Steel manufacturers have received encouraging advices from the railroad companies since the recent rains in the corn and cotton belts and are now more confident than ever that the last six months of the year will record large earnings for the various steel companies.

That Atchison will report from 9½ to 10 per cent on the common stock for the year ended June 30 substantially confirms an estimate made some time ago.

At that time it was figured that the company would earn in the neighborhood of 10 per cent on $166,000,000 common stock outstanding. Bond conversion, most of which took place in the last two months of the fiscal year, brought the total common stock outstanding at the end of the year up to $168,430,500.

Atchison will therefore have a margin of over 3 per cent on its common stock after taking care of the dividends of 6 per cent. This margin is larger than that which a good many of the transmississippi carriers will have, after providing for the dividend requirements.

Estimates of the earnings of four other grander roads, each one of which is paying more to its stockholders than Atchison, indicate that all will have smaller margins after dividends than the Atchison. They are all selling higher in the market, and with the exception of the St. Paul, on a lower income yield basis. This has made traders favor Atchison on the declines.

London Market Quiet With Prices Steady.

Better Demand Prevails in the Copper Market.

NEW YORK, July 21.—A slightly better demand is reported for copper, due perhaps to the more confident advices received from the steel and other industrial companies. It is traditional that the copper industry moves in sympathy with steel. One sale of 1,000,000 pounds of electrolytic was reported Thursday at a shade under 13⅝ cents a pound, although the large selling agencies and producers continue to quote the market at 12¾.

MRS. M'MANIGAL TO CEASE VISITS TO HER HUSBAND

She Complains Alleged Confessed Dynamiter Tells Detectives What She Says.

UNCLE TAKES SAME STAND

Relative Who Reared Him Says Imprisoned Man Appears to Be Doped or Crazy.

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 21.—Ortie E. McManigal, alleged confessed dynamiter and informer against the McNamara brothers, has been abandoned by some of his relatives because he repeats all their conversations with him to the prosecution, according to a statement made by his uncle, George Behm.

Behm, who is a locomotive engineer of Portage, Wis., and who cared for McManigal from the time he was an infant until he was 18 years old, has visited his nephew only once since he arrived in Los Angeles. Behm said yesterday that he believed that McManigal was "either doped or crazy," and declared his intention of not visiting again in his cell in the county jail, because "he tells what is said to him to the detectives for the prosecution."

Wife Takes Same Attitude.

Behm's stand on the question of visiting his nephew has been taken also by Mrs. McManigal, who has not called upon her husband for weeks. It is said she and her children will remain away from him. Of his visit to his nephew, Behm said:

"When I went up to see him I did not make any reference to his alleged confession. He brought the subject up, but said little about it. He seemed to be in fear for his life after the trial and said he feared he might be shot by some union men or by detectives."

Behm was called before the grand jury for a few minutes yesterday, but was excused until July 31 as the inquisitors were busy with investigations of other matters.

Darrow Expects McNamara Trial to Be Begun Oct. 11.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—That the trial of John J. McNamara and his brother, James B. McNamara, for murder alleged to have been committed in connection with the explosion which wrecked the Los Angeles Times newspaper plant will be begun on Oct. 11, the date fixed by Judge Bordwell, is asserted by Clarence S. Darrow and Lecompte Davis, counsel for the defense, who have * * * have for a short sotory. Darrow refuses to dismiss the question of whether the McNamaras would be tried separately or together.

U. S. SUES SMELTER TRUST FOR $2,500,000

Seeks to Recover Damages for Alleged Illegal Entry of Land in Colorado.

DENVER, Colo., July 21.—Suit for $2,500,000 damages for alleged conspiracy and fraud in acquiring 2415 acres in the Trinidad coal fields in Southern Colorado has been filed in the Federal Court against the American Smelting and Refining Co.

In order that innocent purchasers of the lands may not suffer the action is brought in law for damages, and not in equity to set aside the patents. The suit is the culmination of several years' investigation by special land agents.

Besides the name of Special Assistant Attorney-General D. B. Townsend, who filed the suit, the complaint bears the signatures of Attorney-General Wickersham and Acting United States Attorney Ralph Hartzel.

It is recited that the land was acquired by means of 16 dummy entrymen, filings thereon being made in July, 1902. The complaint alleges that Samuel R. Richie of Denver furnished the money with which the lands were bought, he being cashier of the American Smelting and Refining Co. at the time.

RIVER STEAMER SINKS WITH 100 PASSENGERS

Water Is Only 4 Feet Deep and Dubuque Will Make Another Trip Today.

BURLINGTON, Io., July 21.—The steamer Dubuque of the Diamond Jo Line, with 100 passengers on board, lies in a dry dock in the Government canal north of Keokuk with a large hole in her hull, which is being mended.

She struck a snag while en route from St. Louis to Burlington and sunk in four feet of water. Coolness of the crew kept the passengers from panic and no one was killed. The hole was temporarily bulkheaded and by working the pumps hard the vessel was floated and steamed to the dry dock.

The vessel will return to St. Louis with her passengers some time today.

Alaskans Glacial Streams Raging.

VALDEZ, Alaska, July 22.—The hot spell continues in this vicinity, and the glaciers are melting at a phenomenal rate, converting the glacial streams into torrents. A creek that flows through Valdez tore out 40 feet of dyke inundating four blocks in the south part of town. The damage thus far has been slight.
